POINCARÉ BELIEVES IN STERNER COURSE

Ruhr Powder Keg Has Been Ignited and Thirteen Persons Killed During the Week-End.

Paris, March 12.—It is understood that Premier Poincaré believes that the capitulation of the Germans in the Ruhr will be imminent in event France takes a course of sterner action.

France, fearing that Germany will continue her attacks against the French in the Ruhr, plans to extend the occupied zone to include Darmstadt and possibly Frankfurt. It was semi-officially announced Monday.

13 PERSONS ARE KILLED.

Düsseldorf, Germany, March 12.—The Ruhr powder keg, from all indications, has been ignited. Thirteen persons were killed and several wounded in riots which broke out during the week-end, according to advices received here.

It is believed that the fears of the French that guerrilla warfare would follow the German campaign of passive resistance and sabotage have materialized.

The most serious clash occurred at Buer Monday where seven Germans were shot and killed by French soldiers who were given orders to bring in the slayers of two Frenchmen—Lieutenant Cottin and M. Joly—found on the outskirts of Buer with their bodies riddled with bullets.

The French seized two civilians, who were suspected of the crime, and started to lead the prisoners to the military barracks. The Germans were killed when they made an attempt to escape. The double killing inflamed the populace. Mobs, the leaders of which cried for vengeance for the death of the citizens, attempted to storm the police station in which was quartered large detachments of the French military.

The soldiers opened fire on the crowd. Five were slain and several wounded.

Feeling Runs High.

The feeling of the populace of Buer ran high after the French started taking reprisals for the murder of the French officers. A curfew was immediately put into effect and, according to reports received here, three inhabitants of the city, disobeying the curfew law, were shot down Sunday night.

One German was killed and two wounded in fighting which broke out in the streets of Dortmund, word received here Monday stated.

The French believe that Lieutenant Cottin and M. Joly, a civilian official, were killed by members of the Green security police who have been discharged recently because they refused to force the natives to keep the peace.

The Germans, however, blame the crime on French soldiers.

French Minister of War Maginot, who is touring the Ruhr, declared the French would pursue a course of "pitiless retaliation for the deed done."

Sand Bars Delay President's Boat On Florida Trip

Pioneer Encounters All the Trials Known to Pioneers in Steaming.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Fort Lauderdale, Fla., March 12.—The house boat Pioneer, carrying President and Mrs. Harding and their Florida vacation party, encountered all trials known to a pioneer today in steaming, or rather in attempting to steam, down the Florida east coast canal.

The boat, although drawing only four and a half feet of water, proved to be just a little bit too big for the water way, which was attempting to pass through, especially at low tide, and the tide, it is well known, waits for no man—yet even the president.

The result was that during the most of the day the vessel either was getting on a sand bar, was on a sand bar or about to get off a sand bar. To members of the party it seemed

SPENCE INDICATES BEAVERS DEFENSE AT POLICE HEARING

Chief to Claim Police Committee Disqualified to Hear His Case Because of Prejudgment.

Chief of Police James L. Beavers will base his fight to retain his position on the contention that the police committee of council which preferred charges of inefficiency against him is disqualified to try him because its members have already reached and expressed their verdict, namely, that he is incompetent.

This was indicated Monday afternoon by the nature of questions propounded by George Spence, attorney for Beavers, to witnesses before Commissioner John D. Stewart, empowered by Fulton superior court to take depositions in the certiorari proceedings instituted by the chief against the committee.

Attorney Spence sought to elicit from members of the police committee and from Major A. L. Pendleton, Jr., commandant at Georgia Tech, the information that the committee offered the place of "commissioner of police" a position to be higher than the chiefship, to Major Pendleton.

Harding's Plan Aids Democrats Declares Hull

Asserts World Court Proposal Shows Absurdity of G. O. P. Practices.

Constitution Bureau Raleigh Hotel.
BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Washington, March 12.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—Breaking a long silence on the subject, Chairman Cordell Hull, of the democratic national committee, in an interview with The Constitution correspondent today declared that President Harding's proposal for American participation in the permanent court of international justice, established under the auspices of the league of nations, "is an open concession of the soundness of democratic policies from the beginning and the absurdity of republican practice of isolation."

Mr. Hull's failure to comment on the recent proposal of the president until this time has been due to desire to determine what efforts would be put forward toward carrying out the suggestion, it was indicated. He precluded his comment with the statement that the federation move came after two years of feeling in many directions for a substitute.

"After two years of prospecting in many directions," the democratic national chairman said, "the president, at the end of the session proposed to make an open and minor step under policies of international cooperation."

ARMS CONFERENCE TO BE BIG ISSUE IN NEXT CAMPAIGN

PACIFIC TURNED OVER TO JAPAN; IS CLAIM

Republicans Prepare to Base Campaign on Armament Conference and Justice Court Proposal.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

United News Staff Correspondent.
Washington, March 12.—The Washington armament conference which the republican party expects to hail as its greatest achievement during the next presidential campaign will be freely attacked by democratic speakers, who will attempt to show that the treaties signed at this conference leave the United States at a disadvantage, especially in the Pacific ocean.

They will seek to prove that President Harding has turned over the western half of the Pacific ocean to Japan and that certain disadvantages accrue to the United States from some features of the naval scrapping agreement.

Basis of Case.

This treaty contains one important clause on which the democrats are basing their case. This is the one which forbids naval fortifications or naval bases in the Pacific possessions of the four signatory powers—the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France. While Hawaii is exempt from this restriction, it forbids development of naval bases in the other two advance American outposts, Guam and the Philippines. By moving the navy's advance base west from Cebu to Guam 3,000 miles further into the Pacific, the efficiency of an American fleet operating in the western Pacific would be increased 400 per cent, naval experts assert. But this cannot be done under the treaty.

This is one of the chief objections to be raised by the democrats. Incidentally, attacks on those treaties by the democrats may be expected to cause some embarrassment for Senator Oscar Underwood, who is credited with an intention to seek the democratic presidential nomination. Underwood was the democratic member of the American commission at the armament conference and therefore supported the treaties without qualification in the senate. His col-

WASHINGTON RAIDS UP TO DRY AGENTS

State, War, and Navy Departments to Take No Hand—Names of 50 Officers on Tiger List.

Washington, March 12.—Prohibition officials themselves must take whatever action appears necessary in connection with the discovery in a recent bootleg raid here of a list of Washington residents which included the names of several officials of the state department and of many officers of the army, navy and marine corps.

After a preliminary inquiry today it was indicated that the state, war and navy departments would take no further step in the matter, but would regard each case as a personal matter between the men named and the prohibition enforcement authorities. It was pointed out at all three departments that there was nothing new in evidence to in any way incriminate those whose names were on the list.

Names of 50 Officers.

Names and addresses of more than 50 army, navy and marine corps officers in a list seized in a raid here March 3.

The list, as published today in the Washington Post, contains more than 400 names and was seized in a raid on the home of James M. Connor, arrested on the charge of illegal possession and selling of liquor after the confiscation of liquors valued at $4,000. U. S. FARM LOAN BOARD COMPLETES OPERATING RULES

Regulations to Serve as Guide for System's Work in Aiding Farmer Are Announced.

LOANS OF NINE MONTHS PLANNED FOR PRESENT

Board Promises Maximum Service, But Asserts Elemental Safety First Consideration.

Washington, March 12.—The federal farm loan board, charged with administration of the new government financial intermediate credit banks completed today the regulations which are to serve as the guide for the system's operation in aid of the farmer.

The $600,000,000 capital authorized by the law creating the new banks, automatically has been accredited to the farm loan board by the by and indications were given, following a conference today between Commissioner Lobdell of the board and Secretary Mellon, that a million dollars will be turned over to each of the twelve banks immediately upon the issuing of charters. Additional funds, up to the aggregate of sixty millions, will be supplied as needs arise.

The board plans, temporarily at least, to hold loans made under the new law to a basis of nine months maturity. Mr. Lobdell explained, however, that this would be done only because no one knew the exact extent to which the system would be called upon to aid in agricultural financing. The first few months or, perhaps a year, he said, would be regarded as a period of experimentation.

Minimum Service.

"It is the ambition of those charged with the administration of the new law," said the commissioner, "to render maximum service, but elemental safety must be the first consideration. Banks and co-operative associations desiring to use the service and see it developed will make their best contribution by offering nothing but perfectly sound paper."

A construction of the law's provisions, made public by the commissioner, was agreed upon in the three-day conference last week of the board with the land bank presidents. It said: "Direct loans can not be made to individuals. Direct advances may be made to co-operative marketing associations or live stock associations secured by warehouse receipts for staple agricultural products or by chattel mortgage on live stock."

"No such loan may exceed 75 per cent of market value of agricultural product or live stock."

May Be Rediscouted.

"Loans may be rediscouted for national and state banks, savings banks, trust companies, agricultural credit

Trial of de Bouchel Case Not Probable Before January, 1924

BREAKING MATCH ON MERE RUMORS DECLARED ISSUE

Answer of Candler to Mrs. de Bouchel's Suit Greatly Simplifies Case, Declares Attorney Howell.

That the formal answer of Asa G. Candler to Mrs. Onezima de Bouchel's suit for $500,000 damage for breach of promise simplifies issues involved to "the determination of the sole question of whether Mr. Candler was justified in repudiating his promised wife upon rumors vitally affecting her character, without investigating the truth or falsity of the rumors and without affording her any starting point for the investigation by which she could vindicate her own character," was the assertion Monday of Albert Howell, Jr., of the firm of Dorsey, Brewster, Howell and Heyman, representing the New Orleans society woman.

"During my thirty-four years of experience at the bar it has been my policy to avoid newspaper interviews concerning litigation in which I am interested, it being my preference to have such cases tried in the courts alone," Mr. Howell said.

"The circumstances of this case justify a departure from that policy, in justice to both the plaintiff and the defendant."

Revolves Around Charges.

"When I was approached by the plaintiff's New Orleans attorney, Hon. Harry Gamble, for association in the case, I felt that the main issue involved in the controversy was the truth or falsity of the charges upon which Mr. Candler broke his promise to marry Mrs. de Bouchel; that, if these charges were true, no suit should be brought against him, but that, if the charges were false, Mr. Candler had irreparably damaged her reputation, by basing his breach of contract upon the grounds advanced by him."

"I felt that, regardless of the motives of the parties who may have uttered these rumors to Mr. Candler, his high standing in the community and throughout the country and his position as the affianced husband of Mrs. de Bouchel imposed upon him a moral as well as legal obligation not to rely blindly upon rumors affecting her character, but to investigate the charges before adopting them."

CONGRESS LACKS 'MORAL COURAGE'

Mondell, However, Has Some Nice Things to Say About Honesty and Integrity of Its Members.

Washington, March 12.—Congress lacks today, more than all else, the "moral courage" necessary in the face of the complicated problems of the time, in the opinion of former Representative Frank W. Mondell, retiring republican leader.

In a farewell statement, Mondell declares that he cannot "pay the tribute to the moral courage of the congress" that he does to its good intentions and the honesty and integrity of its members.

"The best intentions in the world," he says, "will not save the republic under conditions today, 'unless they be accompanied with a rare courage.'"

Reviewing his 26 years in the lower house, Mondell states that if every vote taken during that time "were based upon the views expressed in the free confessions in the cloak rooms rather than those voiced in the roll call under the pressure of militant minorities, it would have been better for the country."

Asa Candler's Attorneys File Answer to New Orleans Beauty's $500,000 Balm Suit Monday.

DENY ENGAGEMENT BROKEN BY FAMILY

Tell Why Coca-Cola King Refuses to Divulge the Name of Informant Who Caused Break.

The case of Mrs. Onezima de Bouchel against Asa G. Candler asking $500,000 for alleged breach of promise and slander, which again came to public notice Monday through filing of Mr. Candler's formal answer to Mrs. de Bouchel's petition, will not come up for trial before January, 1924, according to district federal court authorities Monday afternoon.

Mr. Candler admitted in his answer that he had been engaged to the New Orleans beauty, but denied that members of his family caused him to break the engagement. He also denies that his letter breaking the engagement constituted slander against her, and denies that he gave any publicity whatever to the information which came to him concerning her conduct in Atlanta during the Confederate veterans' reunion in 1919, and declared that he told no one of this information except Mrs. de Bouchel.

He admitted that Mrs. de Bouchel had sent her furniture to Atlanta at his own suggestions following completion of arrangements for their marriage.

Calendar Congested.

With the filing of the formal answer to the petition Monday, the case automatically went to the October term of the district court, according to court authorities. The month of October will be occupied entirely with criminal cases, and then the division court will consume the rest of the time until January, 1924, when it is possible this breach of promise case will be tried, according to officials.

Mr. Candler's answer declares that when Mrs. de Bouchel left Atlanta in 1919, he made no effort to communicate with her and knew nothing of her whereabouts, except that he received two letters, one from New Orleans and one from Florida.

He admits corresponding with Mrs. de Bouchel and that they became engaged in January, 1922. He stated that immediately thereafter she suggested that they go at once and be

Evangeline Booth Is True Daughter Of Famous Sire

Salvation Army Commander Has Many Mannerisms Remindful of General William Booth.

BY RALPH T. JONES.
This story is written in direct violation of a fundamental rule of newspaperdom. It is told in the first person singular, because it is a story of personal experience, and it would be too clumsy to try and transpose it into the indefinite third.

Years ago, on more than one occasion, it was my privilege to hear General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, speak. The last time was in Liverpool, England. No matter how age may dim memory, nor how sophistication may erase convictions, the white-bearded old general will always remain classified as one of the very few really great orators I have heard.

Last night, for the first time, I listened to Evangeline Booth, his daughter, and now commander in America of the army he evoked. If I had not known her name; if there had been no hint of the Salvation Army present to give a clue as to the object of the gathering, if it had been in a theater instead of a church, and if her subject had been Cabages and Kings, instead of the story of the Army, as it was, I would have guessed who's daughter it was speaking.

Mannerisms the Same.

For there is the same unforgettable trick of stiff-armed gesticulation.

TWO TENNESSEE TOWNS WRECKED; DEATH LOSS IS 16

In Some Localities Wind Reaches Velocity of 80 Miles an Hour Early Monday.

NINE REPORTED DEAD IN CENTRAL KENTUCKY

Three Are Killed at Richmond—Ohio, Mississippi and Arkansas Report Deaths and Injuries.

Chicago, March 12.—Forty-six persons lost their lives in a great storm which swept the country from the Rocky mountains to the Appalachian range Sunday night and early today. Scores were injured and the property damage is expected to run into the millions.

Snow or rain, and in some cases both, accompanied by a terrific wind, which in some localities reached a velocity of 80 miles an hour, took lives, wrecked buildings and crippled telephone and communication systems.

The south suffered most, two towns in Tennessee being completely wrecked and 16 lives lost at Pinson, Tenn., and Deanburg. Two relief trains, one with eight physicians and a second with 50 relief workers, were dispatched from Jackson for Pinson.

Nine deaths were caused by the storm in central Kentucky. Three persons were reported killed at Richmond, when the wind lifted a small farm house containing three adults and ten children, from its foundation, carried it 50 yards and buried it to the ground in splinters. Two were killed at Bowling Green, three at South Union and a nine-year-old boy was killed and five other children were injured at South Portsmouth when the roof was blown from a high school building into a yard where the children were playing, according to reports reaching Louisville.

Two Dead in Chicago.

Other reported deaths included two at Chicago, one at Steubenville, Ohio; one at Massillon, Ohio; one at Greenwood, Miss.; one at El Dorado, Ark., and one at Milwaukee.

Heavy property damage accompanied the storm in all these places. In some sections the damage was estimated at $500,000 to $1,000,000. Some towns are completely cut off from communication with outside points, while in some instances a single wire furnished the only means of communication. Damage to wire service was general throughout the entire central section of the country. Some industries were forced to abandon work today owing to lack of electric power.

Heavy damage was reported from many points in Indiana.

Train service was delayed, fast trains being reported as much as 10 hours late. In some instances where trains were reported lost and wire communication was not to be obtained, radio was used to report the whereabouts of trains.

HEAVY TOLL TAKEN BY STORM.

Nashville, Tenn., March 12.—The total number of dead from yesterday's storm in Pinson, Tenn., was estimated at 16 with 75 persons inured, according to reports received from Pinson and Jackson, Tenn. tonight. The injured have been removed to a hospital at Jackson. Some of them are reported in critical conditions and may not recover. Relief workers from Jackson, according to special dispatches received from that city by the Nashville Tennessean, are pushing on into the rural districts beyond Pinson and they fear further fatalities will be disclosed. Many farm communities, which are believed to have been in the direct path of storm, have been reported destroyed. More Bodies Coming In. The relief workers conservatively estimated the number of dead at 16, but added in the message received here from Jackson, that "dead and injured are being brought in on every train and we have heard nothing from those who have explored beyond Pinson."

In several instances practically all of the bones in the bodies of the victims were broken. Frame dwellings crumpled like paper houses before the terrific wind. Victims were found crushed in the ruins. In addition to the 40 or more persons brought to the Jackson hospitals this afternoon, eight more Pinson injured were here under treatment tonight. Some of the injured persons are expected to die. Early reports placed the dead at 20, but a final checking has cut the figure almost in half.

believed that communities yet unexplored and cut off from the world since the storm, will yield more dead and injured. The work of relief is being carried out under the direction of Mayor J. F. Johnson, of Jackson. The report reached Jackson tonight that the town of Deansburg had been completely destroyed.

First news of the catastrophe reached Jackson this morning as a result of the heroism of Harry Kline, 20 years old, a resident of Pinson. Unhurt in the storm, Kline found the wires out of commission, so he started out on horseback to spread the news. After going two miles the roads became impassable so he walked the remaining distance of 12 miles with the news.

Heavy storm damage is also reported at Medon, a small town south of Jackson. Workers sent to that section have not as yet reported. Rescue work in the entire stricken area is being hampered by the bad condition of the roads, which in many places are barricaded by fallen trees and debris.

The velocity of the wind which spread havoc throughout the county was more than sixty miles an hour.

Both Pinson and Deansburg were suddenly cast into darkness when the storm broke. There was consternation as houses flattened out, roofs were carried through the air, houses were destroyed and great trees were snapped off like reeds.

A number of cars making up a freight train on the tracks of the Illinois Central were reported to have been blown off the tracks.

None Hurt at Buford. Buford, Ga., March 12.—(Special.) A heavy rain and hail storm hit here this afternoon at 5:45 o'clock, hail stones as large as hen eggs falling and considerable water fell. No damage has been reported from this storm, the duration of which was only a few minutes.

Injured Woman Lies Near Death; Identity Unknown Street Car Hits Aged Woman on Peachtree-Grant Corner.

All efforts to learn the identity of an aged white woman who was struck by a street car at the corner of Grant place and Peachtree street early Monday night had failed and physicians at Grady stated at an early hour Tuesday morning that the patient was still unconscious and was in an extremely critical condition.

Whether the unconsciousness of several hours' duration was entirely the result of the injury, physicians were unable to state, and expressed the opinion that drugs might be partly responsible for her condition. A number of empty paragonic bottles were found in a small bag which she carried, but no card, letter or other object was discovered which gave any clue to her identity.

The woman was struck by a north-bound car which was in charge of Motorman R. C. Carson and Conductor J. F. Stewart. According to their report to the police, the car had almost reached the point where it was to stop, when the woman suddenly stepped in front of it.

She was knocked down, severely bruised on the arms and body and wounded seriously on the head, and her false teeth were knocked from her mouth. A passing automobilist carried her to Grady.

M'COLLUM SHOWS WAY TO HEALTH WITH VITAMINES

Americans should eat more vegetables, juices from raw fruits, and phosphorus salts and less cereals to preserve the health of the race, according to Dr. E. L. McCollum, professor of chemistry hygiene at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, who lectured to a large audience Monday evening at the Atlanta Woman's club.

"We are taking now far more cereals in our diet than any people since the ancient Egyptians," he said, "and I believe that the cereals we eat is one of the weaknesses of our race today."

He warned the people against using white bread, meat and sugar in large amounts, as these foods do not contain the four essential vitamins without which ill health is a certainty.

Dr. McCollum showed by historical comparisons and statistics that in the most barbarous countries, where modern means of cultivating cereals have not penetrated, the people are more healthy. Yet these people, when they land in our country, show the same physiological weakness within three years as are seen in the average American.

A recent survey of the teeth of school children in New York, he stated, showed that 90 per cent of the children had from one to seven cavities in their teeth. With reference to sugar consumed, he stated that 100 years ago Americans consumed eleven pounds annually per capita while in 1920 they consumed 87 pounds per capita.

isolation and the soundness of democratic views on the same subject is self-evident, he declared. Meanwhile it is learned that a revival of international issues has inspired more confidence among democratic leaders than any development in the last two years. While party spokesmen found cause for optimism over the failure of the administration to put forward any concrete policy for association with the nations of Europe, believing that a realization of that necessity would manifest itself in the next national election, not until the recent white house announcement was made did they make out and out predictions of the return of the democratic party to power in 1924.

President Harding on the assumption that President Harding would be his party's candidate to succeed himself, although surprise would not be registered if the present chief executive found his last eighteen months of office so tangled as to cause him to retire voluntarily to his Ohio home. In that event it is asserted that minority chances would be even more greatly strengthened, due to the free-for-all fight between progressives and conservatives which would ensue in the republican convention were that to come about.

Seeks Complete Harmony. Chairman Hull, it became known, is cognizant of just such a possibility, and is directing the major portion of his efforts to the end of democratic harmony—not, it is explained, that there is felt any danger of disruption, but merely to insure the greatest cohesion possible.

At the moment democratic interest is chiefly centered in the southern situation, where the two names most frequently heard among democratic leaders as presidential timber are those of Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, and William G. McAdoo, son-in-law of former President Wilson and also secretary of the treasury during the Wilson cabinet.

Mr. McAdoo apparently is proceeding on the theory of directing specific appeals to sectional and other bloc groups without reference to hard and fast policies of any kind. Whereas Mr. Underwood is for state rights in some places, he is generally catalogued as a "dry," though there is no certainty even about that.

The present field of activity is not limited to the two named, however, such others as former Governor Cox, the party nominee last time; Senator Ralston of Indiana; former Associate Justice Clarke, of Ohio, and former Ambassador John W. Davis, all of whom are within the category of possibilities. The objective of leaders during the immediate months will be to have issues more clearly defined, leaving the matter of the party's nominees for the future, meanwhile making preparations for meeting the situation with a united front.

Atlanta Swept By Furious Rain And Hail Storm Torrent Swoops Down, Whipped by High Winds—Little Damage Done.

A furious thunder, wind, hail and rainstorm struck Atlanta shortly after 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, practically clearing traffic off the streets for a few minutes. No serious damage was suffered.

Officials of the wire department of the Southern Bell Telephone company stated Monday night that damage resulting to the telephone system throughout the state was negligible.

At some points, they stated, lightning struck and burned out. Replacement of carbons and heat coils was to be completed before daybreak, it was stated.

The thunderstorm developed in the southwest. Clouds gathered rapidly, then it broke suddenly as a cloud-burst, with wind ranging in velocity from 30 miles per hour up to nearly 40.

A total of 74 inches of rain fell up until 7 o'clock, and most of this fell in a comparatively short time after the storm broke. More rain fell after 7 o'clock, and at midnight it was unofficially estimated that precipitation for the day had amounted to 1.5 inches, the heaviest in more than a month.

Although the wind and rain practically drove traffic off the streets for a few moments, the Georgia Railway and Power company reported shortly after the storm had abated that almost no damage had been done to its property.

To Grow Colder. Following the deluge of rain and wind, the weather man predicted a gradual drop in temperature. By Tuesday, the forecast stated, fair and cooler weather was expected.

Quite a lively display of electricity occurred during the storm, and for hours after the severe portion had passed by Atlanta, thunder continued to roll and lightning flashes kept up the effect of a summer afternoon electrical storm passing on.

Whisky Sleuth Padded Expense Account, Charge Federal Grand Jury Indicts J. W. Griffin, Group Head at Waycross.

J. W. Griffin, group head in charge of the south Georgia prohibition enforcement squad, was indicted by the federal grand jury Monday on a charge of defrauding the government through entering false items in his expense account submitted to the government for reimbursement.

Griffin was appointed to the position of group head on October 28, 1921, with headquarters at Waycross. He has been investigated by George E. Golding, special agent, intelligent, internal revenue department, and it was on evidence submitted by Mr. Golding that the indictment was returned, according to statement by officials.

The indictment specifies several counts where it charges Griffin with making fraudulent reports in his expense account, according to prosecuting officials. One item, according to officials, was the matter of hotel bills reported to the government for reimbursement, and which, according to the officers, were not incurred because Griffin spent the time at his home which he reported to the government he spent at the hotel.

With a wing spread of 12 feet, a snowplow has been pushed over Michigan roads by a caterpillar tractor and proved effective in clearing the high-traffic highways.

THE Arch Preserver Shoe is not only remarkable in that it is smartly styled, nor so exceptional because it is made of the finest leathers—but it is outstanding because it gives you a new idea of foot comfort, a new conception of foot usefulness.

Come and let us explain the four big features—the built-in bridge, the flat inside sole, the natural plane, and the heel-to-ball fitting. These four exclusive features mean the perfect shoe.

MRS. THOMAS CLARKE DIES AT AGE OF 83 Pioneer Citizen of Atlanta Passes at Peachtree Street Home Monday.

Mrs. Thomas M. Clarke, 83, beloved and esteemed pioneer citizen of Atlanta, died shortly before noon Monday at her home, 625 Peachtree street.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock from the All Saints' church, the Rev. W. W. Memminger officiating. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery. The sons and grandsons will act as pallbearers. H. M. Patterson & Sons have charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Clarke, widow of the late Thomas M. Clarke, who died six years ago, is survived by nine children. She chose during her splendid life to lead the existence of a true southern gentlewoman rearing sons and daughters rather than to follow the more conspicuous way of civic leaders. In spite of her retiring life she was none the less widely known and greatly esteemed by countless friends who mourn her passing.

Mrs. Clarke was a daughter of the late Dr. Joseph Thompson, who was one of the best known and oldest residents of Fulton and DeKalb counties. She was born in Decatur and was brought as an infant to live in Atlanta, where she remained during her entire life.

Mrs. Clarke was connected by birth with some of the city's most distinguished families. She was the sister of Mrs. Richard Peters, Mrs. W. F. Orme and Mrs. Joseph Thompson, lamented and beloved Georgians.

The children who survive her are John S. Clarke, of Atlanta; Mrs. St. Julian Ravenel, of New York; Mrs. Harvey Johnson, Mrs. Lowry Arnold, Berton Clarke, Logan Clarke and Walton Clarke, all of Atlanta. Mrs. H. M. Atkinson, of this city, is a niece of Mrs. Clarke's.

Mrs. Clarke watched Atlanta's growth from a humble little village to the city destroyed in Sherman's campaign and then restored to advance to its present position. Her home life was a blend of all else and she was beloved by a charming family and a large circle of home friends, who were drawn to her by their esteem of her gracious hospitality and charm of manner.

PYTHIANS TO GREET SUTLIVE ON ARRIVAL

Wives of Knights to Entertain Mrs. Sutlive During Ceremonial.

William G. Sutlive, grand chancellor of the Georgia Knights of Pythias, and managing editor of The Savannah Press, will arrive in Atlanta this morning at 7 o'clock. He is scheduled to speak at a ceremonial at the Knights of Pythias hall in the Forsyth building tonight at 8 o'clock. It is his first official visit here since becoming grand chancellor.

Mr. Sutlive will breakfast at the Piedmont hotel, and will take lunch at the East Lake Country club. The wives of the Knights of Pythias will entertain Mrs. Sutlive, who is accompanied by her husband, at a theater party in the evening.

The committee of Atlanta Knights of Pythias that will meet Mr. and Mrs. Sutlive will be composed of William T. Moore, W. C. Fink, B. L. Owens, J. Saul and H. M. Stanley.

MERCER ATHLETE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH SATURDAY

Macon, Ga., March 12.—Albert Sidney Johnson, center on the Mercer university football team for three years and captain of the 1921 eleven, was seriously injured late Saturday near Macon, when an automobile he was driving alone crashed head-on into a mule team. Several of Johnson's teeth were knocked out, and he was painfully bruised.

Only twice in ten years have government crop reports been late in being issued.

Thousands at Opening Of Exposition in Dublin

Big Exposition and Automobile Show Celebrates Return to Normalcy in Twelfth District.

BY L. O. MOSELEY.

Dublin, Ga., March 12.—(Special.) The Dublin Industrial Exposition and Automobile show opened here at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon with thousands of visitors milling around the grounds. To use a stereotyped phrase, the show opened with a bang, under splendid weather conditions and unusual prospects for the greatest week in the history of Laurens county and the twelfth district. Varied-colored flags and bunting, street streamers, festive ornaments of every kind and description hang from windows and across the streets, reflecting the gaiety of the occasion and the magnificent spirit of Dublinites in playing host to the largest crowd the little city ever housed before.

"Dublin is celebrating its return to normalcy," President K. G. Simmons of the chamber of commerce stated today. "We have broken bread with the boll weevil and have reached an agreement to work hand in hand. We never were in such a bad plight as we thought. So-called hard times and the hue and cry of bad conditions are more or less a state of mind. You can tell the world that Dublin realizes the boll weevil is here to stay and we have signed articles of peace with him. Dublin and Laurens county is proud to entertain middle Georgia for a week and there is nothing we have that will be withheld from them." Thus Mr. Simmons explained the reason for the week's celebration.

W. H. Proctor, secretary of the chamber of commerce, in a statement this morning, said: "Laurens county has considerable influence with its neighbor counties and its efforts to overcome the depression and to build a system of farming that is safe and sane is shared by all those who touch elbows with us. In this celebration we would have our friends enter into the spirit of it thoroughly. The twelfth district is a part of the celebration and every line of emity that unfortunately, is very often found to exist between larger and smaller communities, has been completely obliterated in this magnificent week of 'getting together.' Every factor in community building, civic advancement, and agricultural progression have been centralized toward making this period of celebration the success we have predicted. While we are showing products of Dublin and Laurens county particularly, they only reflect credit upon our neighbors of the district.

Continuing along another line of thought, Mr. Proctor said: "I believe that right here in Dublin are greater possibilities for the building of a great city than in any other section in the south. With every natural advantage and sufficient momentum already under way and in control, we are going to eclipse in progress any record in Dublin's long and enviable history. In concluding this statement, Mr. Proctor said: "This celebration is to show the world that Dublin is still capable of doing things, is doing things and will continue to do things, bigger and broader things than ever before. In every way, the Irish name of the county site of Laurens is the synonym of prosperity."

The Big Things.
These statements from two officials of Dublin's energetic chamber of commerce, are indicative of the spirit of everyone in this section. Like other counties, Laurens suffered heavily from the efforts of the boll weevil and the general period of depression following the late war. But to a visitor to this thriving and hospitable little city of some ten thousand inhabitants, it is evident that "bygones are bygones."

and that the citizenry struck out boldly and with uncompromising determination to place the county in the forefront of Georgia counties. That this spirit of co-operation and good-will has won out is evidenced at every turn. Getting back to the big exposition and automobile show, more than 75,000 square feet of space is jammed to overflowing with bewildering displays of every product of the county. Merchants and manufacturers have exhibits; every automobile dealer has display rooms; a mass of the latest and improved farming machinery takes a prominent place in the exposition building. And, brilliant lighting effects and elaborate floral decorations and festooning, combine to make the huge grounds a veritable show garden. Prominent Georgians in attendance declare it the most unique and altogether interesting affair ever held in Georgia.

A 24-piece band is blaring away at all hours, and Nardner's shows—coming out of winter quarters here—furnish a variety of entertainment to those inclined to the carnival. Free vaudeville attractions, inside the exposition grounds, occur almost hourly and one can hardly turn without feasting the eyes upon a novel and interesting sight.

It is almost unparadigmatic that this correspondent should have omitted earlier reference to the array of beautiful girls—queens as they were named—representing the 14 counties in the twelfth district. These 14 beauties are gathered in Dublin as the queens of their respective counties, one of whom will be chosen "Queen of the Exposition" on Thursday of this week. The daily "parade of the queens," their gorgeous gowns and their striking beauty forms an interesting feature of the exposition. This daily event, to be a general signal for deserting every other section of the huge building, save that in the immediate section of the group of beauties.

A unusual round of social affairs for the visiting "queens" will be no small feature of the week's celebration, the grand finale coming on Thursday night, following the selection of the queen. When a big ball will be given at the Country club. Unlike many similar affairs, the "Queen Bee" will select her own "king" or "dome." The counties, and their respective queens are as follows:

Houston, Miss Audrey Fagan, Fort Valley.
Cumber, Miss Rebecca McBride, Vidalia.
Bleckley, Miss Marie Dykes, Cochran.
Truett, Miss Vera Barnhill, Twigg.
Emanuel, Mrs. George Minton, Swainsboro.
Pulaski, Miss Alice Baumgardner.
Johnson, Miss Lucile Nelson, Wrightsville.
Dodge, Miss Emily Winn, Eastman.
Montgomery, Not selected.
Wilcox, Mrs. Ruby Briggs, Rochelle.
Laurens, Miss Eva Boswell, Dublin.
Telfair, Miss Carolyn Parker, McRae.
Wheeler, Miss Moena Stroud, Alamo.

Radio Programs.
A huge radio receiving set has been installed near the center of the exposition building and at all hours of the day and night operators are "tuning in" programs. Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, was the first station to be received, the musical program of Sunday night from 10:30 to 11:30 o'clock, eastern standard time, being heard unusually clear and loud enough to be heard and enjoyed in every corner of the big building.

No detail has been overlooked in preparing for the big celebration of the return of normal conditions to middle Georgia. The spirit of the citizenry of this state section of the Empire State could not be expressed more eloquently than in the elaborate show and plans for this entire week. The industrial exposition and automobile show is a monument to that spirit of co-operation which has manifested itself in the establishment of creameries, stock yards, grain elevators, grist mills, flour mills, packing houses, and numerous other similar establishments, not to mention the transformation of the county which was referred to only a short while ago as the "hunger cotton county in Georgia" to one of complete diversification and unbounded prosperity.

No single group can be pointed to as responsible for this remarkable if unique, celebration. The whole of the county joined hands in perfect unison and with one thought and one purpose—that of dispelling the spirit of pessimism and in sounding a note of optimism to the outside world.

THIEVES TAKE DOPE Gain Entrance to Drug Store With "Jimmy."

Morphine and cocaine valued at several thousand dollars was taken by burglars from the wholesale drug house of McRoberts company, 35 Luckie street, some time during Sunday night, or before daybreak Monday morning.

Entrance was gained by means of a fire escape from the second story. A window was "jimmied" open to get inside of the store, and the door to the narcotic room was then opened by forcing a large padlock.

In another burglary—the robbery of the home of Morris Steinheimer, 74 Park drive, the thief was outwitted and fired upon by a pistol he had laid aside. It is believed at least one of the shots took effect, but police Monday were unable to find any trace of a man suffering from a bullet wound.

Mr. Steinheimer was awakened by noises in his room about 4 o'clock Monday morning. He saw the form of a man moving about, saw him pick up a pistol and lay it over beside the bed. Quickly Mr. Steinheimer seized the weapon and began greeting the unwelcome visitor with a volley of shots.

A loss of approximately $500 was sustained by the Britling cafeteria in the Arcade building, early Monday morning, when a sneak thief slipped the bag containing Sunday's receipts from the safe. One of the negro employees is suspected of the theft.

CHILD HURT IN FALL IN ELEVATOR SHAFT

LaGrange, Ga., March 12.—(Special.)—E. T. Poythress, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Poythress, while playing around the open elevator shaft of the new First Baptist church building, fell from the third floor through the open shaft to the ground floor, fracturing one of his arms and hip.

The little boy together with other playmates had gone up to the third floor of the building, which is under construction, and seeing a suspended rope which workmen had been using to draw material up through the shaft, caught hold of it and started to swing across. As he swung out, the rope gave way and he dropped through the shaft. Despite his serious injuries, it is thought that he will recover.

The little boy is the youngest son of E. T. Poythress, tax collector of Troup county.

Cripple Stole Rather Than Beg He Tells Judge

Year and Day of Leisure for Embezzling Sewing Machine Money.

A number of cases of varying importance were disposed of Monday morning at the beginning of the March term of United States district court. Judge Samuel H. Sibley presiding.

Joseph Malcom Nix, whose case was transferred from Rome in order that he might enter a plea of guilty, drew a sentence of a year and a day in the federal penitentiary on a charge of using the mails to defraud. Nix is a cripple. He was arrested some time ago charged with having disposed of a number of sewing machines of a well-known make and diverting the money to his personal use and not remitting to the company.

After entering his plea of guilty, Nix stated to the court that, being a cripple, he found himself in a position where he had to be dishonest or beg. Judge Sibley told him that the prison would probably be the best place for him, from the viewpoint of his own personal welfare, and pronounced the sentence.

William Harkin and Stanford Garrett, jointly charged with destroying United States property, were acquitted. The two defendants were alleged to have torn down telephone lines in the Cherokee forest preserve.

Wiley Ginn, of Hall county, charged with possessing whisky, pleaded guilty and was fined $30. J. C. Forrester, Union county, was found guilty of possessing whisky and fined $50. Sid Allen, of Fulton county, found guilty of possessing whisky, was sentenced to three months in jail. Roy Larnon, Lumpkin county, charged with making whisky, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three months in jail. Fletch Turk, Hall county, charged with possessing whisky, pleaded guilty and was fined $75.

WIND, RAIN AND HAIL STORM HITS CONCORD

Concord, Ga., March 12.—(Special.) A heavy wind, rain and hail storm passed over Pike county this afternoon. Lands were badly washed, small grain beaten into the ground and hundreds of windows panes and store fronts broken. The hailstones were as large, and in many cases larger, than hen eggs.

COAL PROFITEERING CHARGE IS ANSWERED

Declared "Characteristically Misleading" by Coal Operator.

Washington, March 12.—Charges of profiteering, placed against West Virginia coal producers by the United Mine Workers' union were asserted to be "characteristically misleading" in a statement issued today by Walter H. Cunningham, West Virginia coal operator and official of operators' association.

The union, through Ellis Seales now representing it before the commission, Mr. Cunningham asserted, was "engaged in bedouling the real issue, by defending the five months' strike, which placed an enormous burden on the American coal consumer," while attacking "that part of the industry that functioned when the United Mine Workers were trying to close every mine in the United States." "His misleading statements cannot longer deceive the public or the commission," Mr. Cunningham said. "Inadequate transportation, coupled with the quickening of demand for coal of West Virginia character and quality has caused an increase in the spot price which, as any well posted consumer knows, is generally well above the contract price of 1922. At that time, the coal supply was 100 per cent against 36 per cent today and coal was sold below the cost of production."

Have You Ever Looked at a Cork?

TAKE a piece of cork in your hand and examine its qualities. Rub it, feel it, press it. Cork is tough. It does not abrade easily.

Throw this piece of cork on the floor and it will rebound. Cork is elastic. It has springy qualities. When compressed it returns to its original shape.

Drop it in water and it floats. Cork is light. Stop a bottle with it and it will confine liquids for years. Cork is waterproof, and nonabsorbent. Cut a piece in two and you will see that it is compact and solid.

How cork is used in linoleum

Cork in powdered form is a basic material used in making linoleum. It combines perfectly with oxidized linseed oil, from which linoleum gets its name.

Here is what we mean by "oxidized" linseed oil: When this liquid is exposed to heat and air, a solid, tough film forms on top. That is a simple form of oxidation. When this tough substance is mixed with powdered cork the two blend together naturally. Pressed on a strong burlap back, you have what is known as linoleum.

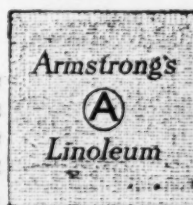

For the tread of many feet

Linoleum is used as a floor; it has all the qualities that a good floor should have. It is durable, smooth, and resilient. It is restful to stand or walk on. It is warm, waterproof, and non-absorbent.

There is another advantage to linoleum. It is produced in many colors and patterns. Armstrong's Linoleum is made in plain colors, in Jaspé or two-tone effects, in carpet inlaid, tile inlaid, and in many different printed designs. Also linoleum rugs, printed and inlaid, for people who live in apartments or houses on short leases.

When properly laid, a permanent floor

We have told you all these things about linoleum so that you will not by any possibility confuse it with other floor coverings that are not made of cork, linseed oil, and strong burlap. When properly laid (not tacked), Armstrong's Linoleum is not merely a floor covering, but becomes a permanent floor, one that with occasional waxing and polishing should look as good as new for many years, and one that will never splinter or need costly re-finishing.

A room of light and color to which the polished, waxed linoleum floor adds charm

How to lay linoleum over wooden floors

In summer wood floors expand. In winter they dry out and contract, with a tendency to open up the cracks between the boards. Your linoleum floor, therefore, should be cemented (not tacked) over a lining of builder's deadening felt which has been previously glued to the bare floor boards. The felt takes up expansion and contraction and gives you a permanent, waterproof, good-looking floor. The added service and wear this method gives are well worth the extra cost.

Linoleum permanently cemented in place requires no stretching or retensioning. Such a floor is smooth and tight

How to tell genuine linoleum

All genuine linoleum has a burlap back that you can see. It does not tear easily. When you see the Circle "A" trademark on this burlap back, you can be sure you are getting the genuine Armstrong's Linoleum, made by the Armstrong Cork Company.

TAX ASSESSMENT FIGHT PREDICTED

Councilmen Declare Opposition to Proposal to Raise Tax Values of Business Realty.

A heated fight on the floor of council is expected next Monday afternoon when the resolution adopted by the finance committee last Thursday providing for an increase in city tax assessments from 70 to 80 per cent on the $100,000,000 of city property has been brought up for consideration.

Several councilmen opposed to raising assessments of city property have come out and announced they would seek to kill the resolution when it is placed to a vote. Active in this direction are Councilmen J. Allen Couch, Councilman Claude L. Ashby, Councilman W. M. Etheridge and Councilman J. J. Greer.

Councilman Greer declared Monday that before he would favor increasing assessments the matter should be submitted to a vote of the people.

"I'm going to fight this resolution," asserted Councilman Greer. "To the last ditch. The people are promised last year that there would be no tax increase this year and I do not think it fair to increase their burden along this line unless they are given an opportunity to express themselves."

Members of the board of tax assessors stated that in the last four years Atlanta's city tax assessments have been increased approximately $40,000,000. The tax book this year will carry more than $20,000,000 in increased assessments over last year, they stated. The proposed increase of 10 per cent would in reality raise the present amount of taxes to 14 cents, it was stated.

Charged With Beating Wife, Dowdy Is Held Under Bond of $200

W. C. Dowdy, of 68-B Windsor street, charged with wife-beating, was bound over to the state court upon a $200 bond Monday afternoon by Judge George E. Johnson, following a preliminary hearing in recorder's court.

Mrs. Dowdy declared that her husband had struck her on numerous occasions and had often threatened her life. Sunday night she said he had accused her of taking sides with her father, H. A. Dendard, signal operator at police station, in an altercation that took place several weeks ago.

She stated that Dowdy had struck her while she was holding their three months old baby and invited her to lay the baby down so that he might kill her. He is also said to have threatened the lives of her whole family.

Dowdy denied the charges of wife-beating and of threatening the life of his wife. Following alleged threats upon his life, Mr. Dendard had a "peace warrant" taken out against Mr. Dowdy several days ago.

TEXTILE EXECUTIVES TO CONVEENE TODAY

The regular spring meeting of textile operating executives of Georgia will open Tuesday at the Y. M. C. A. building at Georgia Tech with delegates from all parts of the state in attendance.

The organization is composed of men in active charge of cotton mills of the state. The meeting is held to exchange ideas and opinions on practical problems of the industry.

At 1 o'clock Tuesday the delegates will be entertained at a luncheon at Georgia Tech, at which Lee M. Jordan, president of the Georgia Cotton Manufacturers' association, will deliver the address of welcome. Other addresses will be made by prominent cotton experts.

MRS. H. M. PATTERSON IS CALLED BY DEATH

Had Been Resident of Atlanta for Over Forty Years.

Mrs. Clara Wakefield Patterson, 64, wife of H. M. Patterson, and one of the most prominent women in Atlanta, died Monday morning at a local hospital after a week's illness.

Mrs. Patterson had lived in Atlanta 42 years, and during this time made her influence felt in all social and religious movements fostered by the many organizations of which she was a member.

As a member of the Atlanta Woman's club her keen interest in all undertakings of the organization, and her unselfish devotion to the uplift of humanity and civic improvement, served as an example of untiring faith.

She had been a member of the First Christian church for many years, where she devoted her time and influence to the cause of Christianity. She also belonged to the Georgia Woman's Mission board and the Ladies' Aid society, serving on many committees to carry out broad and benevolent programs.

Mrs. Patterson was born in Birmingham, England, and came to America in 1877, first making her home in Cleveland, Ohio. From Cleveland she came with Mr. Patterson to Atlanta.

Her illness at first was not thought to be serious, but she was later moved from her home at 5 East Third street to the hospital. Until a few hours before her death she was considered in no immediate danger, but she gradually became worse, until the end Monday morning.

She is survived by her husband, who is head of the firm of H. M. Patterson & Son, funeral directors; one daughter, Mrs. Ben F. Noble, and one son, Fred W. Patterson, who is associated in business with his father.

Need High Rate Because of Light Traffic, Says Menzies—Short Lines Plead for Profits.

A plea for rates in Florida that will not ruinously deplete carriers' revenues in that section because of light traffic, and a plea for special consideration in the revision of rates on short line roads were features of the sessions Monday of the interstate commerce commission at the Piedmont hotel.

James Menzies, freight traffic manager for the Atlantic Coast line, went on the stand at the morning session, testifying that the low density of traffic on the short line roads warranted a higher rate level than proposed for other southern states. In this connection he urged that Florida lines had no through traffic to maintain revenue, and mentioned the short haul problem in support of his stand.

James Strayer, of Atlanta, southern manager of the American Short Line Railroad association, testified in behalf of the short line roads of the south, totaling about 7,000 miles of railroads.

Mr. Strayer urged that the commission give special consideration to the rate revisions affecting the short lines in order that such carrier companies might be "enabled to maintain their sovereignty."

No morning session of the hearing will be held Tuesday. The shippers and carriers will confer at the Transportation building regarding rates on railroads and commodities, and the hearing will be resumed at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Examiner H. J. Wagner, of the interstate commerce commission, is conducting the hearing in the absence of Commissioner Joseph E. Eastman. Commissioner Eastman is expected to return for the closing sessions of the hearing, Wednesday.

TRIAL OF DE BOUCHEL CASE NEXT JANUARY

Investigating Mrs. de Bouchel's conduct in New Orleans, as suggested in letters received by him and members of his family from that city. He states that these letters were turned over to her attorney who has not returned them.

Mr. Candler denies that the letter in which he broke the engagement contained any charge against Mrs. de Bouchel saying it contained merely a statement of the information which had come to him, and that he did not communicate the statement to anyone except Mrs. de Bouchel alone, and that they would not have become publicly known through him.

Candler was shocked. Mr. Candler declared that he was "incredibly shocked and confused" when this information first came to him and did not know what course to pursue. He declares that he believes the statements made out of a spirit of friendship for him and for no benefit or hope of benefit of any sort to the man making them.

Admitting that he refused to furnish the statements made out of a spirit of friendship for him and for no benefit or hope of benefit of any sort to the man making them. Mr. Candler declared that in any event, after having secured this information, he would not have communicated it to anyone except Mrs. de Bouchel alone, and that they would not have become publicly known through him.

Did Not Prove Charges. Mr. Candler admits that he made no investigation of the information furnished him, but that he established the fact that the statements were actually made by a gentleman, and states that he explained in his letter to petitioner that he felt that, in any event, after having secured this information, he would not have communicated it to anyone except Mrs. de Bouchel alone, and that they would not have become publicly known through him.

Answer in Full. The answer follows in full: In the district court of the United States for the northern district of Georgia, northern division.

Onelia DeBouchel vs. Asa G. Candler, No. 419, common law.

1. In answer to paragraph 1 of the above stated case, and in answer thereto, says: 1. Paragraph 1 is neither admitted nor denied for want of sufficient information. Defendant says, however, that petitioner did go from her home in New Orleans to the state of Nevada and instituted there a divorce suit against her former husband, but before she was able to do so she legally became a resident of the state of Nevada.

2. Defendant admits paragraph 2 to 21, both inclusive, but defendant says that when the plaintiff suggested to defendant that they go at once and get married, which, however, defendant declined to do, she was not in Nevada, but in New Orleans, and that she was not a resident of Nevada at that time.

3. Defendant admits paragraph 22, except the last line thereof, which for want of sufficient information defendant neither admits nor denies.

4. Defendant can neither admit nor deny paragraph 23 for want of sufficient information.

5. In answer to paragraph 24, defendant says that he did become engaged to the plaintiff in January, 1922, and immediately thereafter suggested to defendant that they go at once and get married, which, however, defendant declined to do at that time.

6. Defendant admits paragraph 25 to 34, both inclusive.

7. Paragraph 35 is neither admitted nor denied for want of sufficient information.

8. In answer to paragraph 36, defendant admits that a member of his family did visit New Orleans, and that he received by letters from New Orleans, received by defendant and his relatives, Orleans and believed, the object of said visit was to investigate the conduct in New Orleans of the plaintiff, and that the suggestions made in these letters, these original letters were turned over to petitioner's attorney shortly thereafter, who has since returned them.

9. Paragraph 37 is admitted.

10. Paragraphs 38 and 39 are neither admitted nor denied for want of sufficient information.

11. Paragraphs 40 and 41, both inclusive, are severely admitted.

12. Paragraph 42 is denied.

13. Paragraphs 43 and 44 are admitted.

14. In answer to paragraph 45, defendant admits having written a letter, as stated therein, the exact language of which letter is not, however, quoted in said paragraph.

15. In answer to paragraph 46, defendant says that in said letters, as will be shown by reference thereto, he made no charges whatsoever against petitioner, but merely stated to her the information he had received.

16. Paragraphs 47 and 48 are neither admitted nor denied for want of sufficient information.

17. In answer to paragraph 49, defendant admits the statement therein contained in said letter was first made to him, he was indignantly shocked and confused and did not know what course to pursue; and that at the time he wrote the letter, frankly telling plaintiff of the statement made to him and of his confusion and mental distress; that he did not communicate said statements to any one except plaintiff alone, nor would they have become publicly known through him. Defendant felt that the statements were

Shrine to Draw Record Crowds To Washington

Imperial Potentate McCandless Enthusiastic Over Coming Meeting.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS
Constitution Bureau, Realeigh Hotel.

Washington, March 12.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Shriners of the south are preparing to come to Washington en masse for the sessions of the imperial council of the Mystic Shrine which will be held here next June according to Imperial Potentate James S. McCandless, who arrived at the capital today following a tour of temples throughout the United States.

McCandless said he found the "most extraordinary preparations being made throughout the south for pilgrimages to Washington next June," adding that he expected to see that section of the country represented at the national meeting with one of the largest delegations ever sent.

The imperial potentate and other officials of the organization estimated that the least 400,000 Shriners from the country in general will attend the sessions of the imperial council, and plans are already under way for accommodating the vast throng, which will exceed even inauguration crowds, it is said.

"The meeting at San Francisco last summer was the largest to that date," he said. "But since arriving here I have learned from the potentate of the Almas temple that we have 120 temples booked for the coming season. When you stop to think that we have 153 temples, all told, you can visualize the percentage of Shriners who are preparing to descend upon Washington."

FRANCE TO EXTEND OCCUPIED AREA

In true German fashion from the back. Maginot declared it was impossible in the future to treat prisoners humanely as they have been treated in the past.

The municipal officials of Buer were thrown in jail by the French Monday as reprisal for the murders as an intensified state of siege was put into effect. A fine of 100,000,000 marks, which the Germans refuse to pay, was levied against the municipality.

ALLIES DECIDE EVACUATION PLAN.
Brussels, March 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The French and Belgians by declaring this afternoon they are ready, when Germany begins payment, to evacuate the Ruhr and the territory recently occupied on the right bank of the Rhine, believe they should deal a big blow to German propaganda, entirely contradicting the German statement, that they were actually being driven out by political motives in occupying the district.

The formal declaration given out in the form of a communique following today's conference of Premier Poincaré and Theunis.

The portion of the communique carrying this announcement read: "The two governments (the French and the Belgian) are again in common accord not to accept simple promises from Germany concerning the evacuation of the Ruhr and the territories recently occupied on the right bank of the Rhine, but such evacuation will be carried out gradually."

In this connection he urged that Florida lines had no through traffic to maintain revenue, and mentioned the short haul problem in support of his stand.

James Strayer, of Atlanta, southern manager of the American Short Line Railroad association, testified in behalf of the short line roads of the south, totaling about 7,000 miles of railroads.

Mr. Strayer urged that the commission give special consideration to the rate revisions affecting the short lines in order that such carrier companies might be "enabled to maintain their sovereignty."

No morning session of the hearing will be held Tuesday. The shippers and carriers will confer at the Transportation building regarding rates on railroads and commodities, and the hearing will be resumed at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Examiner H. J. Wagner, of the interstate commerce commission, is conducting the hearing in the absence of Commissioner Joseph E. Eastman. Commissioner Eastman is expected to return for the closing sessions of the hearing, Wednesday.

Shrine to Draw Record Crowds To Washington

Imperial Potentate McCandless Enthusiastic Over Coming Meeting.

Constitution Bureau, Realeigh Hotel.

Washington, March 12.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Shriners of the south are preparing to come to Washington en masse for the sessions of the imperial council of the Mystic Shrine which will be held here next June according to Imperial Potentate James S. McCandless, who arrived at the capital today following a tour of temples throughout the United States.

McCandless said he found the "most extraordinary preparations being made throughout the south for pilgrimages to Washington next June," adding that he expected to see that section of the country represented at the national meeting with one of the largest delegations ever sent.

The imperial potentate and other officials of the organization estimated that the least 400,000 Shriners from the country in general will attend the sessions of the imperial council, and plans are already under way for accommodating the vast throng, which will exceed even inauguration crowds, it is said.

"The meeting at San Francisco last summer was the largest to that date," he said. "But since arriving here I have learned from the potentate of the Almas temple that we have 120 temples booked for the coming season. When you stop to think that we have 153 temples, all told, you can visualize the percentage of Shriners who are preparing to descend upon Washington."

Need High Rate Because of Light Traffic, Says Menzies—Short Lines Plead for Profits.

A plea for rates in Florida that will not ruinously deplete carriers' revenues in that section because of light traffic, and a plea for special consideration in the revision of rates on short line roads were features of the sessions Monday of the interstate commerce commission at the Piedmont hotel.

James Menzies, freight traffic manager for the Atlantic Coast line, went on the stand at the morning session, testifying that the low density of traffic on the short line roads warranted a higher rate level than proposed for other southern states. In this connection he urged that Florida lines had no through traffic to maintain revenue, and mentioned the short haul problem in support of his stand.

The big two weeks' intensive campaigning started yesterday morning, bright and early. Did you start with it? Are you one of the interested members of The Constitution's Help-Yourself Club who is going after this fine Buick Four Automobile?

It's going to be given away—not to the member with the highest votes opposite his name at the close of the campaign on March 31st; not to the member who has turned in the greatest amount of subscription payments since the Club was started—but to that member who has turned in the greatest amount of subscription payments, in dollars and cents, BETWEEN MARCH 12 AND MARCH 24—just two weeks' time.

Such a short time!

But what a period of real, honest-to-goodness WORK!

The member who is indifferent—who waits a few days to "limber up"—who lets the other fellow get a substantial lead—is the member who—

But you are not THAT member. You KNOW what it means to get busy NOW! You know that you cannot afford to let a single opportunity pass. You know that ONE DOLLAR turned in during these two weeks by another member that is in excess of what you have turned in means that HE WINS and YOU—

But FAIL is a hard word. You cannot afford to fail.

In addition to the Buick Four Special Award, you still have an opportunity of winning one of the big Capital and District Automobile Awards. Look at the big "U" on this page. That "U" stands for YOU, and one of the fine motors in that "U" will belong to YOU if you go after it.

Here's a hint: Go get those SECOND PAYMENTS. There are some who have given you short-time subscriptions. They are now acquainted with the merits of The Constitution and would not think of stopping their subscription when their time expires. Their extended subscription NOW will mean many votes for you in the final award, and will count toward winning the Buick Four Special Award.

And then—

For every $25 in subscription payments turned in during these two weeks we will give you 50,000 EXTRA VOTES, and for every dollar over that amount 2,000 EXTRA VOTES will be given. Positively, there will be no extra votes given during the last week of the campaign.

corporations and incorporated live stock loan companies.

"No paper can be discounted upon which the borrower has been charged a rate more than one and one-half per cent in excess of the discount rate of the intermediate credit bank of the district.

"In making advances on warehouse receipts, the credit banks can accept only receipts from bonded government warehouses or satisfactorily bonded warehouses operating under satisfactory state supervision and regulation. This should lead to broader interest and greater activity in the development of warehouse facilities and proper regulation.

"The facilities which the banks will be able to afford to cooperate marketing concerns should lead to a greater development of such enterprises.

"Amply funds will be available for loans to facilitate orderly marketing but none to support speculative holding of farm products.

"No loans will be made for a longer period than nine months, until the system is thoroughly tried out. Upon live stock paper, satisfactory assurance of renewal will be given in any case, but only in aggregate amounts equal to the bank's capital, and then the subject of the mortgage must submit to inspection and a satisfactory condition of security provided."

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

A Cincinnati Barber Tells How to Make a Remedy for Gray Hair.

A well-known resident of Cincinnati, Ohio, who has been a barber for more than forty years, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce bay rum, a small box of Barch's Compound and 1-4 ounce glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the most delicate scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—(adv.)

receivers on his ears four solid hours, to see if he wouldn't hear something naughty to confirm his bad impression of the new invention.

Zion's high priest picked up Toronto, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, New York city, Chicago, Kansas City, Savannah and Birmingham.

And he heard but one thing "objectionable," he said.

"You guessed it—it was the jazz orchestra at the Drake hotel in Chicago.

Wilbur just hates jazz and thinks saxophones are as much instruments of the devil as cubebe, as when the snappy strains of the Drake band began, he turned off the juice, and now advises his followers that they must do likewise if they hoped to add to the angelic fanfare of harps in Beulah Land.

"The music from Kansas City was especially beautiful," said the head of the Christian Apostolic church. "The motion picture and the automobile have been seized by the devil for his own purposes, but the forces of God must try to take over the radio and keep it pure while there is yet hope."

Volva admitted that he half expected to be able to talk to God, and, perhaps, get an answer over the radio. As Volva claims to be the only true prophet, all Zionites believe that he can get it if anybody can, and they hope they'll be able to listen in.

there always was a sand bar somewhere, and when this afternoon relief to the voyagers was offered from the shore, it was accepted gladly.

The relief, in the form of automobiles and other members of his party to the shore, was offered by the Ingleside Country club here, was proffered by a delegation of Fort Lauderdale business men who discovered the pioneer stuck on a sand bar above Boca Raton.

About noon, a tugboat from Palau Beach and this place. The president, former Director Davies of the budget, and Secretary Christian came ashore, and with Edward B. McLean, the president's host, who had come down from Palm Beach, and Leo Diegel, the golf professional, came here for the daily game of golf. Diegel took the place in the president's four-seater of Chrysler and, after a short stop, went on to the ship.

The troubles encountered by the Pioneer boat, practically blasted the hopes of the party that Miami would be reached tomorrow. With high tide late this afternoon, the Pioneer made better time, but darkness on the water made the trip more hazardous. The general belief tonight was that the Pioneer would not reach Miami before Wednesday and that the president would some shore tomorrow for golf either on the morning of the 14th or over that at Hollywood, six miles south of here.

Most of the trouble with sand bars was encountered today, the cruise yesterday after the departure from Palm Beach having been made slowly, principally because of the narrowness of the channel. Immediately the cruise was resumed today, however, the obstructions began to appear. Several times during the forenoon progress was made only through the attaching of towlines to the Terzigen, the small secret service boat, and auxiliary craft enlisted to aid. During one of these towing processes, some of the crew failed to take up the slack in a hauler and it became wrapped around the propeller of the Pioneer. Butcher knives from the kitchen were brought up and the first mate of the Pioneer and the skipper of the Terzigen made repeated dives under the house boat, hacking away the hauler.

All in all, it was an eventful day for the members of the presidential party, but an exceedingly busy day for the members of the crew of the Pioneer.

SPENCE INDICATES BEAVERS DEFENSE

mittie and others by Ed H. Inman, former police commissioner, shortly after the Sims administration took over the reins of city government, and Major Pendleton, a guest, was asked if he would accept a position as head of the police department, if, in the event of a reorganization of the force, a vacancy occurred.

Major Pendleton later took the witness chair and stated that he told the guests that under no circumstances would he consider the place of chief, but suggested the creation of a "police commissioner," who would be in charge of police affairs. He said he informed the committee he could not consider changing his position for less than his income as Tech commandant, which, he said, was $7,200. No position was ever offered him, he said, and the committee made no reference to salary.

Recommended Cox.

The Tech commandant said that he had not been broached on the subject of possible election as police department head until the dinner. He was present at the invitation of E. Harry Goodhart, former councilman, he said, and did not know the purpose of the dinner until he arrived at the Inman home. Upon his decision not to consider the proposition, he said, he wrote Mayor Sims a letter in which he recommended Major Charles Cox.

Major Pendleton stated that he gathered the impression at the Inman dinner that he would not supplant the chief, but would hold a higher position, than that official. He said that during the dinner the committee seemed to be that Chief Beavers should be removed for incompetency.

Mayor On Stand.

Mayor Walter Sims, a guest at the Inman dinner, was questioned by Attorney Spence as to the discussion on that occasion, and as to statements with reference to the removal of Chief Beavers attributed to him.

The mayor said that he has repeatedly expressed his opinion that Chief Beavers is incompetent, and that his fight to oust the chief is not personal but is merely in the interest of public service. His opinion as to the chief's incompetency was reached, he said, after listening for seven consecutive weeks to testimony in the 1921 bounce hearing.

He said that he has frequently declared that he intends to make the police department "as clean as a bound's tooth" and that such action would necessarily include the removal of the chief, due to his apparent incompetency.

"A department whose men do not support their chief cannot properly function," he said. He had information, he said, that during the mayor's last year, 85 or 90 per cent of the police department supported himself instead of Chief Beavers, who opposed him for the office of mayor. Councilman J. Allen Couch was called to the stand. He was questioned at some length as to his knowledge of the reform program of the police committee, but was excused after he declared that he is not on the "same side" in council as the police committee and, therefore, did not enjoy their confidence, and his only knowledge of the police reform movement was information he had gathered from speeches heard in city council.

Refuses Fee Source.

Councilman J. A. Beall, member of the police committee, who is said to have paid the retainer fee to the law firm of Harwell, Fairman and Barrett, counsel for the committee, was questioned as to the source of the funds with which he retained counsel, but Judge Frank Harwell instructed him that he did not have to reply. Counsel for the opposing sides agreed to submit the question as to the admissibility of the question to Judge George L. Bell when the open hearing is begun Thursday morning.

If Judge Bell rules the source of the funds must be given, several members of council believe it was agreed the name of the person supplying the fee would be supplied. At 10 o'clock Tuesday morning the hearing will be resumed. Among the witnesses subpoenaed are Ed H. Inman, several members of council and a number of newspaper men, the latter being expected to furnish data on the source of recent news stories relating to the police situation.

ARMS CONFERENCE WILL BE ASSAILED

league, Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, who has succeeded him as democratic leader in the senate, made an unsuccessful effort to amend the four-power treaty to give additional protection to American interests in the Orient.

Two Strongest Points.

Republicans on the other hand, expect to make the armament conference, together with the recent international court proposal, two of their strongest points of appeal on the stump. President Harding regards the armament conference as his one remaining contribution to history. What he has done is to have suffered at losing his ship subsidy plan, and they probably were somewhat keen, are forgotten when he reviews the work of the Washington conference. He believes it is an achievement, which will go down in history linked with his administration, and that if he were to do no other thing, that alone would make his administration one of the most successful in the school histories of future generations.

The president has repeatedly, in his messages to congress and in public speeches, asserted his belief that the Pacific regional pact offers a model which all the world could well follow and that the naval scrapping treaty sets a precedent which will be more generally adopted in succeeding years.

Neither party, it would seem, intends to let the country forget the armament conference during the campaign, but as it is all water over the dam, the wisdom of the treaties can hardly come into question as a major issue for the simple reason that these treaties are so-called matters, the irrevocable law of the land for ten years at least. That, however, probably will not prevent the spilling of many words by political orators in the coming months.

KEEP HANDS OFF IN CAPITAL RAID

concerning the list and its presence in his home was the only evidence to connect it with his alleged liquor operations.

Lieutenant O. T. Davis, chief of the police vice squad, who led the raid on Connor's home, was said already to have turned over the list of names to the army and navy intelligence officers. It was said also to have been given to Divisional Chief Read, of the prohibition enforcement bureau, and to the commissioners of the District of Columbia.

The list, except in few instances, gave only the last names and address in the entries. The rank of the army, navy and marine officers included, however, was indicated in each instance. These names included half a dozen high ranking naval officers and several of high grade in the army.

Names Are Checked.

The police declared at the time of the raid that about six of the names and addresses checked with those of members of congress and that several of the addresses were the premises of prominent women and men's clubs here.

Connor was said by the police to have boasted before the raid that his clientele was so exclusive he never would be arrested. He and another man arrested with him, Edmund L. Craig, described as one of Connor's three assistants, were said by the police to have admitted that they handled on an average of 200 cases of whisky a week. They were said to have stated that they manufactured most of it themselves and all of the necessary ingredients and equipment for the manufacture of Scotch and rye and gin, according to the police, was found on the premises.

An elaborate system of books was said to have been found by the raiders, showing that a regular monthly accounting was rendered to purchasers. Experts of the police department have attempted to decipher a code found with the books, evidently arranged to connect up the bookkeeping system, but it was not known whether they had succeeded.

GERMAN FINANCES

RUM RUNNERS.

London, March 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Wholesale rum running into the United States by a fleet of four or five ships registered under the Panamanian flag is being financed by a prominent German magnate, according to information received in responsible American quarters here. The fleet, it is declared, is being chiefly operated from the United States end by a former German captain of a Hamburg-American liner.

The fleet itself, it is understood, is under the command of a character of questionable nationality, who achieved notoriety in connection with marine operations of a dubious nature during the war. The absolute proof of these vast operations is lacking, the information received by American circles here points to colossal landings of liquor cargoes in the United States, chiefly from Glasgow.

Situation in New York.

New York, March 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Indications that the Atlantic coast of the United States is to be attacked by rum fleets from three-quarters of the globe were seen today in dispatches from London stating that a German syndicate was preparing to finance extensive smuggling operations.

A squadron believed to hail from the Bahamas already is rocking off the northern New Jersey coast and preliminary landings are reported to have been made.

Word that a British syndicate is assembling an armada to storm the Atlantic coast, has been brought here recently by tourists visiting Nassau.

With this three-fronted attack came other indications that spring will bring melodramatic activities in the north Atlantic reminiscent of the days of Captain Kidd.

Several schooners have sailed into Halifax and St. John reporting that they had been attacked by rum pirates off New York and their cargoes seized.

EVANGELINE BOOTH IS TRUE DAUGHTER

There is the same effective device of reaching out into the wide world and the far-flung reaches of the infinite universe to build up the dramatic climax. And here is the same out-thrust chin and challenging eye.

Evangeline Booth was introduced to her Monday night audience by Attorney General George M. Naper. When she rose to sing, she confessed to embarrassment at the extravagance of his introduction. But, in truth, there was before her an even greater tribute than that voiced by Colonel Napier.

Not half a dozen individuals in the world could have drawn so many Atlantans out in the rainstorm of Monday to listen to a speech. Their very presence told of the compelling power of the name "Booth" when linked with the Salvation Army. And, it is safe to say, there was not one who did not feel well repaid for the effort of coming to the Baptist tabernacle through the storm.

Told Story of Army.

She told, in words that carried the conviction of her own heart, the story of the organization she represents, from the day of its birth in a dirty London slum, to the present. She made that story a living, breathing romance, and a thing of beauty.

She left, in her hearers' hearts, the wonder why the evangelical churches of the world don't forget their differences of creed, sink jealousies and competition and, joining together for one great, inevitable triumph, go marching across the world behind the thrilling trumpets of her intrepid army. For, when the brass blared forth its accompaniment to the great chorus of human voices, singing that glorious old song of fighting Christianity, there arose in fancy a vision of a mighty army, sweeping away all prejudice and sorrow, marching in ever swelling phalanxes of irresistible conquest, into the promised age of the millennium.

America, Here's Our Plan

A Trade Alliance that has raised the standard of the clothing industry

Lou Adler Says:

Under the above caption, Mr. George H. Capper, President of Capper & Capper, announced in the Daily Press of Chicago, Detroit and St. Paul, of an alliance with the Cohn Rissman and Company organization—makers of the famous Stratford Clothes. This announcement was the "Proverbial Shot That Was Heard Around The Clothing World." It was the most dynamic clothing editorial that I have ever read.

As a fellow retailer—as one who also has dreamed of a higher order of merchandising—as a clothing merchant—as a man, I want to congratulate Mr. George H. Capper. I know him by reputation—he must be a big man or he would not be president of six of the finest clothing and haberdashery stores in the Middle West. His editorial speaks for itself—I have never met him, but I feel that I almost know him now.

Six years ago I came to the conclusion that the men of Atlanta were sorely in need of a store that would furnish them with super-clothes. I then began to dream of a clothing department. I dreamed of a super-made garment, made by a super-organization—of "heart and soul clothes," to quote Mr. Capper, made by men who exert super-effort—who have super-clothing intelligence.

And so I began to look. I went to the clothing markets of this country. I found many boosters for the many so-called advertised lines. I examined—dissected—looked, but said little. I found many men who were willing to take my order, but that was the least of what I wanted. I just could not find the line nor the men that I dreamed about. But I kept looking. I simply could not dismiss the idea. Months followed—it seemed like years—but I kept dreaming and looking.

One day, a Mr. Jack F. Rissman, of Chicago, walked into my store. He said: "Mr. Adler, you have the smartest haberdashery shop I have seen in the South—but you need a Clothing Department—a fine clothing department in order to take your store out of the 'shop class' and make an institution of it. You need the kind of clothing that has the blood of its executives and workers in it—clothing that stands out like a 'sore thumb'—clothing that is moulded and needed so well that you can defy the whole world to produce anything finer. I have that, Mr. Adler."

This fellow startled me—I said "Stop"—took my hat and said, "Show me." We went to the Hotel Piedmont and I was shown. That was the beginning of my tie-up with the Stratford organization. I then went to Chicago—met the President of this super-organization, Mr. Henry L. Rissman—also a young man—an idealist—a practical tailor—an executive of the first water—a man of few words, but a tireless worker and thinker.

They were not concerned about my order—did not give a "Tinker's Tink" about it. They showed me thru their plant—I saw these great clothes in the process of making—I saw them deftly needed by the most skilled of artisans—in a new and most original method—I saw the brains that these men put in their clothes. To them, quality was paramount—deeply enrooted—always probing for ways and means to make clothes better.

I immediately saw the realization of a dream—I saw that I had "the something" that I had longed for. They listened attentively to me—they seemed to know and sense my problems, too—from the merchandising end to the smallest detail of my store and then they made it their business to know something more about Atlanta—they studied the city and they gave me every ounce of blood and energy in them. They showed me how "to put the idea across." I came back to Atlanta—just "rarin' to go"—I did and have prospered.

From the very inception of this clothing department we have always led the field. Not only in style—in finely needed—well constructed clothes—but in fabric designs, too—if you please. Remember the Copley checks back in 1917—the Warren Stripes in 1918—the Hoot Mon Tweeds in 1920—these are just a few—all a year ahead in fabric design. These very patterns were copied to a "fair thee well" by other lines—but always a year behind. Reminds me of Robert Burns' answer to the rhyming-pirates—"They can copy my rhymes and lines, but thank the Good Lord they can't copy my brain."

And so in the very short period of six years we have doubled and then tripled the size of our clothing department. Our clothing business today is growing faster than it ever has. We have ample proof now that the men of Atlanta appreciate these Super-Stratford Clothes—this Super-Stratford organization. We are well satisfied—you will be likewise, Mr. Capper.

MANY CONVERTED AT BIG MEETING IN MONROE SUNDAY

At a meeting in Monroe, Ga., held Sunday by the "Flying Squadron" of the Agoda class of the Baptist tabernacle, 153 persons were converted. Members of the class reported Monday on their return to Atlanta. The meeting was held at the Monroe Baptist church, and the invitation to the Agoda class was extended by Governor-Elect Clifford Walker.

DYSPEPSIA CAST OUT BY PAW PAW

Richmond Woman Relieved of Headaches, Sleeplessness and Nervous Depression.

"I want to say for the benefit of my friends and others that my own Paw Paw Tonic positively cures dyspepsia. This is the statement of Mrs. W. E. Moore, of Richmond, Va. Read her letter:

"I was so afflicted with that dire complaint," she writes, "that whenever I ate seemed to rest for hours. I caused headaches, insomnia and nervous depression beyond description. I could obtain no relief. I tried a bottle of Paw Paw Tonic and from the very first I felt a change for the better."

"My food began to digest and I almost instantly began to feel like another person. I have used but one bottle and I really and conscientiously feel that I am cured of my dyspepsia."

If you are a sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia, any stomach trouble, if you are continually upset from nervousness, buy a bottle of Myson's Paw Paw Tonic at once—and just FEEL yourself improving. It costs $1 a bottle at any first-class drug store. Or you can get it from the Paw Paw Tonic Co., 1231 Broadway, New York City, who will send you a free literature and tell you how to get it.

It is a fact that Paw Paw Tonic is the only medicine that has been used for over 50 years and is still the most popular and effective remedy for all stomach troubles. Resinol keeps skins clear in spite of everything. The smoke and dust of city life, the steam and dirt of housework—all spell ruin for good complexion. But the regular use of Resinol Soap, with an occasional application of Resinol Ointment, keeps the skin so clean, clear and fresh that it simply cannot help being beautiful.

Salvation Army Commanders' Talks

Officers at Conference Hear Her Twice Daily. Woman's Club Engagement Is Canceled.

The two hundred Salvation Army post commanders who are attending the annual conference of the organization in Atlanta will hear their commander in chief, Evangeline Booth, twice today when she will address the council meetings at 10 o'clock in the morning and 7 o'clock in the evening at the First Baptist church. Miss Booth canceled her engagement with the Woman's Club at address the women of Atlanta at the Central Congregational church at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Other engagements canceled.

The meetings are of a strictly Army nature and are not open to the public. Commander Booth will bring to her subordinates a direct personal message from headquarters and will tell them something of what is being accomplished in other fields outside of the southern divisions.

Good Hears Lecture. Miss Booth was heard by another overflowed audience Monday morning when she gave her remarkable lecture, "The World's Greatest Romance," at the Baptist tabernacle. The huge gathering was thrilled by the recital of Salvation Army history which she gave during the course of the address.

Very few people today realize what the Salvation Army had to meet in the early days of its career," Miss Booth declared. "When General William Booth first began the movement in 1861, and for many years thereafter, Salvation Army workers were treated to all forms of persecution in carrying out their mission of mercy and good will; even in the early stages of the work in America this petty persecution was continued and the Salvation Army worker was held in very low esteem."

War Caused Change. "All this has been changed in recent years and during the war," she asserted. "The public has come to regard the Army in its true light as one of the greatest benefactors of mankind now in existence. The selfless heroism of thousands of privates in the ranks who are devoting hours and days at a time in salvaging wrecked humanity and enabling hosts who are emerging from their hovels to begin life anew to regain their feet, is being realized more and more today, thanks to the white light of publicity which was turned upon the Army workers during the war. The selfless heroism of the A. E. F. in France."

Reports which were made during the Monday council meetings showed the work of the organization in the southern divisions to be in excellent condition. The 75 posts in the principal cities of the section, together with 15 social institutions which are being conducted for the benefit of both men and women, are making large contributions toward the social welfare of the various centers in which they are located, according to the reports. It was pointed out that the work of the Salvation Army is being carried to 76 different countries and colonies in the world today, and in 48 different languages.

Organization Is Big. There are at the present time 12,982 corps and outposts attached to the organization, with 1,288 social institutions and agencies; 129 day schools are being operated in various parts of the world. There are 80,281 local officers, 72,522 bandmen and 34,917 songsters who take part in the public meetings.

In addition to Commander Booth's two speeches on Tuesday, there will be also a regular council meeting at 2:30 for all delegates at the First Baptist church.

Colonel Margaret Bovill, of New York, speaks at 8:45 at the chapel service, and Colonel E. J. Parker, of New York, will address the student body at 9 o'clock. A special musical program will be broadcast over station WGM. The Atlanta Constitution radio, at 9:30 in the evening. The congress will continue in session through Wednesday.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR FRANK P. RICE HELD ON MONDAY

Funeral services for Frank P. Rice, prominent Atlantan, who died Saturday at his home, 286 West Peachtree street, were held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the First Methodist church, the Rev. C. J. Harrell, pastor, officiating.

A large number of Pioneer School Boys Club attended the funeral as a tribute to the club of bygone days. There are approximately 300 members of the organization, composed of men who attended private schools over 50 years ago, before the present system had been instituted. Interment was in Oakland cemetery. H. M. Patterson and Son were in charge.

The pallbearers were Hugh Richardson, Dr. W. C. Warren, Eugene M. Mitchell, W. F. Russell, James Wright and W. T. Perkins. The board of stewards, which Mr. Rice was a member, acted as honorary escort.

Erlanger Lauded As Emancipator Of American Stage

Characterizing Abraham Lincoln Erlanger as "the emancipator of the theater," the National Magazine says that producer a high and unusual tribute in a recent article. It sets forth that "Abraham Lincoln Erlanger has done for the theater what his great namesake did for the nation" and under his photograph, which is reproduced in the center of the full-page story, is this caption:

"Mr. Erlanger, more than any other man, perhaps, has been responsible for lifting the theatrical business in America out of a chaos of unorganized effort onto the plane of a highly developed, efficiently directed industry. Not the business side of the theater, but the enterprise alone, but the actors, the rank and file of the personnel of the theater-going public itself have been benefited tremendously by the results of his far-seeing sagacity and his talent for organization and direction."

The article follows: Great names, great fortunes, great reputations have been made in the theatrical business in this country in the last two decades. There are few lines of endeavor in which the prizes are so great as in which they hang so rich. The business of the theater is a highly speculative, if it succeeds at all and fails miserably if it fails.

Formula for Success. What the formula for success is, in this most uncertain business, no one knows save those who have achieved success—and they, naturally, are not likely to divulge it. It is a matter of personal fitness for a peculiar task, as is evidenced by the strongly developed personalities of theatrical men.

You can find many examples of leaders in the lines of business close to standard measurements, but few of them are of the type which will find two great figures in the same world who were cast in the same mold.

Every single one of them is strongly individual in his own way. The "nobles" of the theater are not like the nobles of other kinds of the red plush world of art, in being different from all.

There was surely something prophetic in his naming for Abraham Erlanger, who has been the "emancipator" of the theater, the name of a man who has been more than any other individual, for putting it on a stable and sound foundation.

He was born in Buffalo, N. Y., the son of Leopold and Regina Erlanger. During his childhood the family settled in Cleveland, Ohio, and he received his education in the public schools of that city. He was a student at the Cleveland College of Music, but at the old Academy of Music, then under the direction of John Edgar Hoover, he found his true vocation. He failed after building the Euclid Avenue Opera House, and when the latter passed into the hands of Mark Hanna, he became a manager of the Cleveland Orchestra, which he conducted for many years.

CLINIC OPENS HERE

Lectures to Be Given by Dentists of National Note.

Approximately 200 dental surgeons from all parts of the south assembled on the roof garden of the Ansley hotel Monday morning for the opening of the annual Atlanta mid-winter clinic of the Fifth District Dental Society.

Lectures and clinics will be given by authorities in the profession of international note, who are in attendance from many sections of the United States. The clinic will be in session through Wednesday.

Dr. J. Russell Mitchell, president of the society and professor of oral hygiene at the Atlanta Southern Dental college, will preside over the meetings. The clinic was opened Monday morning by the clinic master, Thomas P. Himm, instructor of oral surgery at the Atlanta Southern Dental college. The invocation which preceded the opening of the meeting was by Rev. W. M. Memminger.

Dr. E. V. McCollum, of Johns Hopkins university, lectured on "Diet in Relation to Teeth," Monday evening at the Woman's club auditorium. Others who lectured Monday were Dr. K. Knapp, of St. Louis, Mo., on "Modified X-ray Preparation and a Standardized Technique for Gold Inlays"; Dr. George Thompson, of Chicago, on "Porcelain Jacket Crown Construction"; and Inlay and Bridge Restorations," by the Dr. Mortenson brothers, of Milwaukee.

Dr. Clarence O. Simpson, of St. Louis, will speak on "Oral Radiography," and "Interpreting Radiographic Evidence," during Tuesday morning's session. He will be followed by Dr. F. E. Roach, of Chicago, who will speak on "Partial Dentures," Tuesday afternoon. The demonstrations begin at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Dr. A. J. McDonough, of Toronto, Canada, will lecture on "Traumatic Torque" Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Officers of the society are Dr. J. Russell Mitchell, president; Dr. R. M. Eubanks, vice president; Paul W. Key, secretary, and C. E. Jones, treasurer.

In connection with the Atlanta mid-winter clinic, the Southern Academy of Periodontology will hold its third annual meeting Tuesday and Wednesday on the roof garden of the Ansley hotel. The meeting is to be held in the interest of advancing knowledge and treatment of pyorrhea.

It is not likely that the dental commission will act on this case until Wednesday, as an effort is being made to secure positive evidence as to Ralph's age. Should the commission not act until Wednesday, it is likely that the governor will immediately decide one way or the other as he is scheduled to leave the state Thursday.

Harding, and will not return until after the date set for the hanging.

Started With "The Christian." In 1894 Klaw & Erlanger associated themselves with the state presentation of Hall Caine's "The Christian," and in 1898 they made their notable production of "Ben Hur." To estimate the business done by Mr. Erlanger since the beginning of the twentieth century would be to review the entire great event that have taken place in the American theatrical world in that time. As a producer, Mr. Erlanger is interested in most enterprises alone. In many others he has Charles B. Dillingham and Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., associated with him. One of the achievements of which he is proud is the building of the $2,000,000 New Amsterdam theater in New York City, accounted the finest theater structure in the world and not controlled by Erlanger, Dillingham and Ziegfeld.

Personally, Mr. Erlanger is revered in manner but to his intimate friends he is a man of the most complete private collection of Napoleonic in the world. His friends he has painted wood portraits of famous historical characters, or shown rare portraits, medals or personal relics with the love and knowledge of the connoisseur. He finds much recreation in literature, and he owns also a valuable collection of autograph letters and documents. His net worth is the only one in the world that is not identified with this time of theatrical offering.

Through by Nature. With the thoroughness characteristic of his nature, he has developed his natural talent for stage direction and personality supervision into a certain never being rung up on a new production of his until it has received the fitting touches at his hands. The perennially successful "Follies" owes its long life and enormous popularity in great measure to the meticulous care given by Mr. Erlanger, who takes complete charge of the final rehearsal.

At his country seat at Lawrence, Long Island, he enjoys golf and riding. He is a member of the Lambs, the Friars and other New York clubs. Judge Mitchell L. Erlanger of the supreme court of New York is his brother.

POLICE HOLD HARTLEY ON MURDER CHARGE

Guy T. Hartley, of 404 Courtland street, is being held by the police on charges of murder and reckless driving of an automobile, following the fatal injury of Annabelle Hardy, 4-year-old negro girl, at Hunter and Davis streets, about noon Monday. Witnesses told the police that the little girl ran out from behind a wagon almost directly into the front of Hartley's truck.

Captain T. O. Sturdivant stated that Mrs. Phinizy was being held for medical treatment following a hearing before the recorder in August upon a disorderly conduct charge, and on August 8 she effected her escape clothed in the uniform of women stockade prisoners.

CLEMENCY URGED FOR BAKER BOYS; SEE EARLY ACTION

The Baker boys, Walker county brothers sentenced to be hanged for the killing of Deputy Sheriff Mortimer, are subject of many letters and telegrams being received both at the governor's office and at the offices of the state prison commission, the majority urging commutation of the sentences to life imprisonment, and arguing that the law should be allowed to take its course.

Many local clubwomen and church people have called in person at the prison commission offices to urge mercy for the boys.

The basis of most of the pleas for the brothers is their ages, it having been contended by the defense that Ralph, the younger, and the one who actually fired the fatal shot, is but 15 years old. There seems to be some doubt on this question of age, the prosecution contending that he is 16.

It is not likely that the prison commission will act on this case until Wednesday, as an effort is being made to secure positive evidence as to Ralph's age. Should the commission not act until Wednesday, it is likely that the governor will immediately decide one way or the other as he is scheduled to leave the state Thursday.

Harding, and will not return until after the date set for the hanging.

Started With "The Christian." In 1894 Klaw & Erlanger associated themselves with the state presentation of Hall Caine's "The Christian," and in 1898 they made their notable production of "Ben Hur." To estimate the business done by Mr. Erlanger since the beginning of the twentieth century would be to review the entire great event that have taken place in the American theatrical world in that time. As a producer, Mr. Erlanger is interested in most enterprises alone. In many others he has Charles B. Dillingham and Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., associated with him. One of the achievements of which he is proud is the building of the $2,000,000 New Amsterdam theater in New York City, accounted the finest theater structure in the world and not controlled by Erlanger, Dillingham and Ziegfeld.

Personally, Mr. Erlanger is revered in manner but to his intimate friends he is a man of the most complete private collection of Napoleonic in the world. His friends he has painted wood portraits of famous historical characters, or shown rare portraits, medals or personal relics with the love and knowledge of the connoisseur. He finds much recreation in literature, and he owns also a valuable collection of autograph letters and documents. His net worth is the only one in the world that is not identified with this time of theatrical offering.

Through by Nature. With the thoroughness characteristic of his nature, he has developed his natural talent for stage direction and personality supervision into a certain never being rung up on a new production of his until it has received the fitting touches at his hands. The perennially successful "Follies" owes its long life and enormous popularity in great measure to the meticulous care given by Mr. Erlanger, who takes complete charge of the final rehearsal.

At his country seat at Lawrence, Long Island, he enjoys golf and riding. He is a member of the Lambs, the Friars and other New York clubs. Judge Mitchell L. Erlanger of the supreme court of New York is his brother.

POLICE HOLD HARTLEY ON MURDER CHARGE

Guy T. Hartley, of 404 Courtland street, is being held by the police on charges of murder and reckless driving of an automobile, following the fatal injury of Annabelle Hardy, 4-year-old negro girl, at Hunter and Davis streets, about noon Monday. Witnesses told the police that the little girl ran out from behind a wagon almost directly into the front of Hartley's truck.

GEORGIA GLEE CLUB TO PLAY IN ATLANTA

Will Present Show at Woman's Club on March 24th.

Presenting an entirely different class of show this season, the Georgia Glee and Instrumental club will give two performances at the Woman's club auditorium March 24.

The club is composed of 41 members, including two members of the faculty. Alfred Scott, well-known basketball player, is one of the faculty members.

Joe Bennett, captain of the 1923 football team, and "Teeny" Randall, star halfback of the Bulldogs eleven, are members of the club. Roy Jones, of Atlanta, is leader, and Morris Stokes, another Atlanta boy, is one of the lead men.

The show will present acts of all kinds, from the sayings of the endmen to the touch of grand opera that makes up the fourth act. The show has been well coached and practices are being held twice daily in order to perfect every department. The first act will be the "High Court of the Red and Black," the second a skit, "The Lion Hunt," is a comedy in which "Chubby" Allen and "Jazz" Carroll play the principal roles.

The itinerary this year includes the following cities: Atlanta, Elberton, Griffin, Macon, Americus, Albany, Valdosta, Jacksonville, Brunswick, Savannah, Augusta, Winder, Gainesville and Athens. This is the first year that the club has given a performance out of the state.

FINED FOR GAMBLING

Jett Leads Raid on Downtown Hotel.

Twenty-two young men taken by police in raids on two downtown hotels early Sunday morning, drew fines of $11 each before Recorder George E. Johnson Monday morning.

One of the raids was upon the personal supervision of Assistant Police Chief E. L. Jett and Captain J. E. Chandler. This was at the Adair hotel, where nine were found in one room in a "gambling attitude," it is said. A quantity of poker chips were seized, although it is said the officers did not find the men actually playing.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and sugar. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup. To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and tastes very pleasant. You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—irritated membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Sore throat, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs. Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Mrs. Pope Honors Guest at Luncheon.

An interesting event of an informal nature on Monday's social calendar was the luncheon at which Mrs. Mark Cooper Pope, of Atlanta and Washington, entertained at the Piedmont Driving club complimentary to Mrs. Henry McIlhenny, formerly of Macon but now of New York.

Mrs. McIlhenny, who is the wife of the late Dr. Henry McIlhenny, has a wide circle of friends in Georgia, and her visit to Atlanta is being marked

SPORTS TOGS

Now comes the "troubadour and gypsy time of year"—with Rich's togs in bright accord.

Bandannas,
$1.25

Show Your Colors

—Many a buoyant sports hat will fly its colors in a Batik or Paisley bandanna. And there are countless other ways for the bandanna to be worn. The most popular ambition is to discover a new bandanna style. You can express your individuality in the way you wear your bandanna. Of many silks, in many colors, $1.25 to $5.50.

—Scarfs of silk and of silk and fibre, $1.69 to $5.50.

—Rich's, Main Floor

Gloves, $1.19

Wear Flaring Cuffs

—The new sports gloves have a festive flare that is decidedly appropriate for lovers of Spring and the out-of-doors. Comfortable enough for real sports use, smart enough for general, as well as sports wear, they will join hands with all fashionable women. Of suede, fabric and kid, $1.19 to $6

Stockings, $1.75

—If you want something that is new and different, you should see these latest sports stockings. They're of all silk novelty weaves and colors or of silk mixtures. $1.75 to $2.50.

—Rich's, Main Floor

Blouses
$1.95

Both Plain and Printed

—The gay printed blouse to wear with white or solid color sports skirts and the trim, tailored blouse to wear with sweaters are ready for Spring's first sports. In silks both printed and plain, in dimities, linens and all other desirable materials—there's every blouse you can imagine, $1.95 to $25.

—Rich's, Second Floor

Coats, $43

Are Made of Camel's Hair

—No wonder the camel's such an arrogant animal, with all the world of sports giving camel's hair first place for Spring. Many are plain, others are gay with plaids or huge block checks. Some have fur collars. Of genuine Camel's Hair, $43 to $147.50.

—Other sports coats, in many colors, $20 to $187.50.

Jacquettes, $29.75

Are Semi-sports—Semi-dress in Style

—All the Spring colors are woven or embroidered or braided into brief brightness in the jacquette, $29.75 to $79.50.

—Rich's, Second Floor

Dresses, $29.75

Are Knitted and Printed

—For real sports the Golfex frock takes first place—and deserves it. Definitely designed to give freedom of movement as well as comfort, this sports dress succeeds, too, in being extremely becoming to the lithe figure of the sportswoman. In all smart colors of Jersey and Tweed Jersey, $29.75.

—Printed dresses and other semi-sports frocks of silks, cotton, homespun and linen, $29.75 to $237.50.

—Knitted Dresses, $29.75.

Skirts, $10

Prefer Pleats

—There's freedom and grace in the pleated skirt—and that's one reason Palm Beach and every other rendezvous of sports and fashion has declared for the pleated skirt this Spring. In silk or wool—many solid colors and Egyptian prints, $10 to $29.75.

—Other sports skirts for wear with sweaters and jacquettes, $6 to $29.75.

—Rich's, Second Floor

"It is the season now to go About the country high and low, Among the lilacs hand in hand, And two by two in fairyland."

Sweaters, $6.50

Have the New Mannish Lines

—The newest golf sweaters are beltless and collarless and swing straight and loose in jaunty, mannish lines. They're most practical for sports. The colors are solid or in novel effects. All wool, $12.50 and $16.75.

—Other coat sweaters show Tuxedo as well as collarless styles. There are many fascinating weaves and all the staple and novelty colors. In silk or wool, $6.50 to $25.

Slip-ons, $2.95

Of Chiffon-like Weight

—The newest slip-on sweaters are airy trifles of Chiffon Alpaca. There are novel and staple weaves and all the old and new color favorites.

—One can readily understand why the vogue for the slip-on sweater increases every day and why well-dressed women want a slip-on of every weave and hue.

$2.95 to $25.00

—Rich's, Second Floor

Knickers, $2.95

For Real Sportswomen

—Golf and tennis, hiking and the "new" roller-skating have adopted knickers with real enthusiasm. There has never been a sports garment so sensible and comfortable as knickers of Khaki, Velour and Tweed. All sizes, $2.95 to $6.50.

—Knicker suits—Jack Tar make—of Khaki. Trousers button to blouses. Sizes, 14 and 16. $3.95.

—Rich's, Second Floor

It's Coming!
It's Coming!

THE VITAL FLAME

BY MAY CHRISTIE

A Stirring Serial of Primitive Passions

CHAPTER XIX.

The "Mysterious" Lady Warrington, Leonie was artistic, too. . . . hadn't she been around the studios of Paris, Rome, Vienna, London, as model, designer—all sorts of things—for years and years? She had even daubed a bit, herself, on canvas! For she had a certain knowledge both of color and of line, which knowledge had later proved invaluable in the millinery venture.

And she had the business instinct that Miles Holden lacked! That was the main essential.

He would go up and up in his profession! She was wide-awake enough to realize that fact.

"Besides, I am in love with him!" Slowly, pleasantly, her mind seized the thought. (Had she not done an excellent morning's business, and was justified in a few moments' indulgence of the gentle passion?)

A tall, angular woman in the late forties strode into the lounge, and dropped awkwardly into a chair beside Leonie. The woman's hair was badly done, and dusty. Her suit—of good material—was ill fitting, and of the wrong color. Her hat, worn at the wrong angle, with a slightly backward tilt, looked as though it had been rescued from the dust bin.

"She was ungainly, yet she had 'an air' about her. Even the waiters recognized it, for they flew to do her bidding. And though her face was neither plain nor pretty, and at the moment looked as though a good wash might improve it—her features were aristocratic, and her dark blue eyes were really fine."

"Lady Warrington, by all that's lucky," mentally exclaimed Miss Leonie, with a little intake of the breath.

There was an influential woman, who could be of benefit to her, not only in a business way, but socially. Indeed, the two things were intertwined, for it was to Leonie's best interest to cultivate the prominent folk.

"Eccentric, but has a wide variety of friends," proceeded the young hat shop lady, racking her brains to remember all she'd heard. "Likes to think she's Bohemian, and dabbles a bit in everything, being good at none! Husband dead, I think."

Lady Warrington had ordered coffee and a creme-de-mint. When the waiter had withdrawn, Leonie could see her burning feverishly for sun. "Draw the man! He's forgotten it," she remarked aloud.

Here was the girl's opportunity, and she seized it.

"May I offer you mine?" She handed over a little bowl of sugar. "The waiters are rather forgetful."

Lady Warrington thanked her effusively, peering short-sightedly at the girl. She had so many friends, and knew such shoals of people that she felt she ought to recognize this well-bred, smartly-dressed young woman.

"I am not sure—perhaps we have met before—I go about a great deal—" fibbed the latter, in answer to the older woman's question. "And of course I adore you. Don't you find it very atmospheric?"

Lady Warrington rose to the bait with child-like naivete. The word "atmospheric" suggested a true fellow-feeling and Bohemian soul.

"It expresses one's every mood," she chirped, "all that is gay and young and romantic, that's to say, I find no sadness here."

That trite remark amused Miss Leonie. Not for worlds, however, would she have shown her amusement.

They talked for fifteen minutes, then Leonie inquired:

"Are you making a long visit?" Her manner left nothing to be desired, in flattering interest. She must make hay while the sun shines.

"Oh, staying just a day or two, to get some clothes. Half a dozen hats have just arrived, and I've been trying them on, but do you know—I am a bit of childish disappointment, came to the older woman's face—"although they looked marvelous in the shop when I put them on my head, something's wrong! They don't seem half so smart!"

Leonie could well believe it.

"If only I had someone to advise me—someone who understood line, and color, and my type!" went on the lady plaintively, stirring the sugar in her coffee. "And yet I'm artistic myself. I really don't understand what's happened."

Here was Leonie's chance. She leapt at it.

"It would give me the greatest pleasure to help you, and I'm sure I could." (It was too early in their acquaintance to let this influential woman know she was a mere milliner! If things progressed favorably, time enough for that.)

Lady Warrington turned towards her, beaming.

"You are an artist? Yes? Much as I love the dear creatures, I thought you looked too smart for one."

"This was very, very promising. And your own hat's marvelous," went on her new-found friend, with gush. "If I could only feel I looked one-half so well!"

Now was the time for adroit flattery. It could be laid on heavily. Leonie had gauged the type, to a certain extent.

"Forgive me for plain speaking, but of course you must know already that you have exceptionally fine features! So much character, and strength, and yet—such femininity! I speak only as an artist. Whenever or wherever I see beauty—" And she broke off cleverly.

Lady Warrington was delightfully surprised. "Clever," "briny," "charming," "good-natured," she had many times been called. Her best friends could not have guessed how ardently she longed for physical beauty, and how—like so many of her plain sisters in the world—she would willingly have sacrificed all else for the radiant good looks she could see enjoying homage everywhere.

Leonie could read these fluttering emotions, and proceeded to enlarge her theme.

"You have something more . . . now, do excuse my frankness—something more than mere good looks. Not only have you the 'distingue' air which most women would sell their souls to possess, but never can, because it's a matter of heredity and blue blood—but you have that 'je ne sais quoi' of sublimity, that Mona Lisa air that is so intriguing!"

(Had she gone too far this time. Would the foolish creature really swallow that, wholesale?)

Lady Warrington gave a delighted titter. Here was someone after her own heart. And how clever to guess—although of course this attractive young person couldn't possibly know her identity—that she really was talking to a scion of nobility, her father being in the peerage.

As for the sublimity—

Men! Here was another sidelight something rather mysterious about me—that they couldn't get to the bottom of the way I smile," floundered the embarrassed but entranced lady, who was shallow as the day.

Men! Here was another sidelight for Miss Leonie. Poor, dear Lady Warrington fancied herself as a charmer of the opposite sex!

Revival Services.

Americus, Ga., March 12.—(Special.)—A series of revival services will be held at the First Methodist church here beginning Sunday, April 8. Dr. William Russell Owen, pastor of First Baptist church at Macon and one of the ablest evangelical ministers in Georgia, will be in charge of the services. He will be assisted by the pastor, Dr. Carl W. Minor, and Pierce Rowland, of the Baptist Home Mission board, will direct the song service.

Winter wheat will thrive best when it has plenty of moisture in fall and winter and a warm March, says one expert.

Home Economics Expert

Miss Helen Louise Johnson, of New York city, will speak at the Atlanta Woman's club Tuesday, on "The Psychology of Clothes." She will also review the hats and gowns which have been made by the members of the home economics department of the Atlanta Woman's club at the fashion show to be held by that department Tuesday.

Confessions of a Debutante

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY.

I ran away from my fiancé.

Jonathan Grey, rich and elderly, to the rescue.

Larry, a man who dances well. His wife, Mrs. Larry, shows me the folly of my action and becomes my friend. I return home.

My engagement is announced though my affection belongs to

My fiancé, who begged to my coming out party, and whose name I refused to listen to because I believed we never could be friends. After quarreling with Jonathan over my actions and then coming to a better understanding than ever I go shopping.

The girl whom Jonathan asked to substitute for me, because of the uncertainty of my arrival at my engagement party, is arrested for shoplifting. She accuses me of being an aid and it is discovered that we have duplicate rings. I am arrested with her. Mrs. Larry, through an old friend on the bench has me temporarily released.

INSTALLMENT NO. 50.

"Hoddy Talks."

Jonathan arrived at half after 7 last evening—half an hour late—and a Jonathan very full of apologies.

He was sorry he had been so late. His chauffeur had been working on the car and failed to finish in time, the man hadn't known the importance of the engagement, in fact had misunderstood the time set.

And, the while, a flush spread over his always florid face. There was a contrite air about him generally and a sense of something which puzzled me.

All of the angry accusations which were about to flood to my impetuous lips were stifled. I had the feeling that he had not been so much at fault after all.

However as we drove away and all during the evening which followed I was more or less silent and was conscious of a sense of injured vanity when Jonathan was near.

He noticed it at dinner.

"You are quiet tonight. Nothing happened?" He looked at me anxiously.

"Nothing at all! I'm all right!" My laugh was vacuous.

I exerted still greater effort following that to join the chatter about me, but it was next to impossible. There was some intangible force getting over me and fairly chilling me into silence. The blue flame of my engagement ring flashing in my eyes every now and then dizzied me. I wondered if the dinner would never be over and if we should never get at the dancing.

Finally the place was a clatter with moving chairs and I found myself going along with the rest toward the ball room. Jonathan was beside me and Hoddy Mitchell with a girl friend just back of us.

"Am I going to have a dance tonight, Mr. Grey?" Hoddy asked, coming abreast of us and linking his arm in mine.

"You are, young man, you are."

It seemed a little of the anxiety and nervousness had gone from Jonathan's voice.

"Next after this?" Hoddy asked.

Jonathan nodded. We were already moving over the floor and to the strains of that familiar waltz! I felt that I should suffocate as the words of the song sang themselves into my brain with the strains of the music.

"Then in the flame which on the altar glows

Eternal love will shine;

And every fitful breeze that blows,

Will waft a prayer of mine.

For you, my dear."

I was glad when the music finally ceased and Jonathan took me to a seat. Hoddy and his girl friend were close at our heels. The young woman stopped a second to chat with a passing group. Hoddy came on, waiting for her with us.

"You're getting sort of important, aren't you?" He was looking at me and laughing.

"Important?" I echoed.

"Yes—ah—when shoplifters try to hide behind your name, is that because she's engaged to you, Mr. Grey?" he continued.

Jonathan, who hadn't been paying attention turned to him suddenly.

"Eh—what's that, Hoddy?"

"Story in the paper about a girl arrested for—"

The music had started. I pulled Hoddy's arm around me and dragged him away in a fox-trot.

From over his shoulder I saw the face of Jonathan, amazed, and it seemed slightly pale.

Atlanta Concerts Will Be Given by Georgia Glee Club

Two Atlanta concerts will be given by the Georgia Glee and Instrumental club on March 24, when the members will appear at the Atlanta Woman's club auditorium on Peachtree street.

The members of the club have been practicing twice each day and will present an entirely new play.

Forty-four members will tour the state with the club, which will visit Elberton, Atlanta, Griffin, Macon, Americus, Albany, Valdosta, Jacksonville, Brunswick, Savannah, Augusta, Winder, Gainesville and Athens.

Thirty members of the club of 1922 are in the Georgia Glee and Instrumental club this year.

The songbirds will please with a program of college songs and other numbers. The Bulldog orchestra and "Georgia Four" will contribute enjoyable features.

W. C. T. U. Holds Meeting Thursday.

The Mary Latimer McLendon W. C. T. U. held a meeting Thursday afternoon at Trinity church.

Mrs. Katie Lee Reeves, state superintendent of medical contest, was in charge of the program. The main feature of which was the speeches and the presentation of the medal.

Little Miss Katie Lewis won a silver medal by her very expressive rendition of "Papa's Vote."

Charles Belle Isle entertained the audience with a selection entitled, "It Happened Down at Cy Hall's Store," while the judges were in consultation.

Mrs. Lena Cox, principal of Grove Park school, spoke on "The Need of Temperance in the Schools."

Mrs. Cox extended an invitation to the members of the W. C. T. U. to meet with the Parent-Teacher association at Grove Park in April, at which time a silver medal contest will be held.

The children participating in this contest will be the pupils of the Grove Park school. Mrs. Reeves was invited to preside over the medal contest department.

Mr. Kreger gave an interesting talk to the boys and girls, relating his experience with temperance when a boy, and what it afterwards meant to him in manhood.

The next meeting will be held March 22.

Pharmacy Exams.

Americus, Ga., March 12.—(Special.)—E. L. Murray, secretary of the state board of pharmacy, today announced the dates upon which candidates for pharmaceutical license will be examined by the board. Two examinations will be held during the spring months. On April 2 the board of pharmacy will meet at Macon for the examination of candidates, and on April 28 the board will convene at Atlanta for the same purpose.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Salty Soup.

A couple of slices of raw potato will be a great help if the soup is too salty. Remove after boiling for a few minutes.

Wash Off the Mould.

Always wash and wipe the apples that have been lying in the cellar before eating, as they are covered with an imperceptible mould.

Wild Last a White.

Earthenware mugs can be bought in attractive designs and are sensible for the children's milk. They are not only durable but are easily washed.

Efficiency Squibs.

Don't forget the weekly bath of the bread box.

A wineglass of cream after each meal is a weight producer.

Slices of hard-boiled egg add to the lentil or barley soup.

Mock chicken salad can be made successfully from cold veal or roast pork.

Leftover fruit juices from preserving are excellent for making colored icing.

Fine ashes and turpentine make a splendid paste for cleaning steel and brass.

Y. W. C. A. Board of Directors Has Enthusiastic Meeting

The outstanding announcements made at the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. board of directors, held Monday at the administration headquarters, in the Peachtree arcade, were that Mrs. W. C. Jarnigan is to give, free of charge, operatic readings at the Y. W. C. A., in the Peachtree arcade, for the association's business girls and women and that Mrs. Robert Lowry of the Georgian Terrace has increased her contribution of $25 yearly as a member of the association to $100 yearly. Mrs. Jarnigan will give her first reading Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Any business girl or woman in Atlanta is invited to attend, free of charge. Mrs. Jarnigan will give her readings as a contribution to the work of the association.

For several years past Mrs. Lowry has donated a $25 membership to the Y. W. C. A. the increase being given as a result of the association's present membership campaign.

Another feature of the meeting is the plan that the committee will inaugurate an order to have committee women attend the director's monthly meetings. Instead of monthly reports at each meeting, in future all departments who are also on the directorate, will invite the women on their committees to attend the 1 o'clock subscription luncheon that is always held by the directors and later to hear the association's reports read. In the past, board meetings have been attended only by the directors.

The hour preceding the luncheon the directors will meet in executive session.

1,462 Girls at "Y" Home.
Mrs. J. P. Averill, chairman of the Y. W. C. A. home, 56-62 West Baker street, announced that in 1922 1,462 girls had applied for board in the home; 289 girls had been registered regularly in the home and 268 transients had been cared for.

At all times the home had exhausted every available space for accommodating girls.

The home committee in giving six bungalows for the Y. W. C. A. camp at Highland, Ga., stated that the small structures are for the use of the entire camp and not to be confined to any special groups of girls. On the home committee are Mrs. J. P. Averill, Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, Mrs. F. M. Robinson, and Miss Sally Eugenia Brown.

Other reports were made by Mrs. Stephen Barnett, chairman of the Y. W. C. A. membership drive; Mrs. D. I. Carson, corresponding secretary; and by Mrs. Russell Porter, ice chairman of the first ice committee. Mrs. A. R. Colcord, chairman of general education, stated that she is securing teachers for educational classes for business girls which will be announced at the membership rally on Thursday evening.

The Industrial Committee.
Mrs. R. K. Rambo, recently elected chairman of the Y. W. C. A. industrial committee, gave the following report: "The industrial committee has added seven new names to its membership since the last meeting and now has twenty-seven active workers. Two meetings with Miss Jean Davis, of Agnes Scott college, who is conducting the study in economics for the committee, have been most interesting. Nine noon entertainments in factories have been given."

The Church Home.
The work in the church homes was begun last week with parties at Martha Candler and Allie Callaway, the third one to be given at the Buford home on Wednesday. Clubs will be formed there and the members interested in association classes and other activities.

Realizing that little is generally known of what is made in the city, weekly trips through some of the large factories have been planned with ten of the committee volunteering to take them. The first one was a visit to the J. K. Orr Shoe company.

The event of the afternoon session was the talk made by Mrs. Archibald Davis on the new membership basis that is before local associations throughout the country. Mrs. Davis' talk was based on the results of the new membership basis conference that was recently held by the national board Y. W. C. A. in Chicago. Those present at the meeting were Mrs. Archibald Davis, Mrs. Plato Durham, Mrs. J. Russell Porter, Mrs. Stephen Barnett, Mrs. Julian Robinson, Mrs. B. L. Bugg, Mrs. E. K. Large, Mrs. P. I. Carson, Miss Sally Eugenia Brown, Miss Mabel Magruder, Mrs. R. K. Rambo, Mrs. A. R. Colcord, Mrs. William P. Hill, Mrs. J. P. Averill, Mrs. M. L. Wilkinson, Mrs. Clayton Callaway, Mrs. W. A. Albright, Miss Mary Mendenhall, Miss Genevieve K. Saunders and Miss Irma E. Finley.

Many stage people now depend entirely upon Marmola Prescription Tablets for reducing and controlling fat. One clever actress tells that she reduced steadily and easily by using this new form of the famous Marmola Prescription, and now, by taking Marmola Prescription Tablets several times a year, keeps her weight just right. All good druggists sell Marmola Prescription Tablets at one dollar for a case, or if you prefer you can secure them direct from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. If you have not tried them, take so. They are harmless and effective.—(adv.)

Mr. and Mrs. Croft Are Complimented.
Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Wright entertained at a dance Saturday evening at their home on North Jackson street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kirby Croft, whose wedding was a social event of Saturday afternoon, March 3. Mrs. Croft was formerly Miss Jennie Mae Wright.

The house was artistically decorated with spring flowers. Misses Elizabeth Watson, Thelma Sewell and Frances Buchanan assisted Mrs. Wright in entertaining. The bride was beautifully gowned in an imported model of American Beauty satin crepe, combined with silver.

Meeting of Spring P.-T. A.
The Spring street P.-T. A. will hold the regular meeting in the school auditorium, Wednesday at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

Forrest Ave. P.-T. A. Postpones Meeting.
Because of the illness of Miss Kate King, principal of the "Pine's night" meeting of the Forrest avenue Parent-Teacher association has been postponed from Wednesday night of this week until Wednesday night, March 21, at 8 o'clock, when all friends and patrons of the school are invited to be present.

Mrs. M. E. Ailes is president of the association.

Prices realized on Swift & Company's sale of carcasses beef in Atlanta, Ga., for week ending Saturday, March 10, 1923, on shipments sold, ranged from 10.00 cents to 16.00 cents per pound and averaged 12.75 cents per pound.—(adv.)

Speaking of Rugs-- Suppose you wanted a rug or carpet, something to soften the white marble halls of your beautiful castles of the air. What could be more fitting than a bit of feathery cloud, spread for your dream-self to walk upon!

Dream castles are good, but is not your home, your earth-castle, better? Choose for it one of our Persian rugs—so soft and lustrous that you could fancy it a downy cloud, fresh from its bath in the summer sunset.

We know of such a one, its deep warm pink holding the glow of the evening sky; its patches of blue a mirror of the heaven it rested upon; and still, where its face was turned westward, edged with gold from the sun itself.

Rugs from the Orient

The rugs we offer portray most vividly the spirit of Oriental art. "Imagination is sympathy, illumined by love, and ballasted by brains," it has been said, and these rugs are aptly described as products of Oriental imagination.

What a labyrinth of curving, winding figures, wrought in living colors!

If the weaver, a true artist of the East, had suddenly been transformed into a silk-worm, and had woven thread of his own making, that web could not be more the essence of his being than the rug we have here today. In each rug is a poem, a passion expressed, and happy are they who can read its meaning.

An Oriental Rug for Everyone

The world is so full of a number of people—but we are confident that in our large collection of Oriental rugs is a specimen to suit every individual taste.

Perhaps you are a care-free, jolly-good fellow. Here are rugs to fit your mood—bright, curious patterns in rose and green, laughing up at you from their edges of gold.

You may be a bit idealistic, with dreams of an earthly Utopia. For you are rugs as radiant as the Elysian Fields, wondrously rich, with luminous shadows inwoven.

Or are you a matter-of-fact, sensible soul? There are large and small rugs in sober colors, figured with simple squares, triangles, and jagged latticed effects, so mingled as to please the sternest critic.

Whatever your bias, we invite you—to come and choose a rug after your own heart.

Quality Silk Hose

For the Use and Adornment of the Discriminating Woman

And what woman is not discriminating in the choice of her hosiery? What other one item of dress is so important? The grace of line of the feminine ankle is a heritage of which every woman may well be proud.

Correct hosiery is fashioned to accentuate the natural beauty and grace of the well-turned ankle.

—And we have collected here for milady's easy selection all that is best in the world of silken hosiery—best in looks and best in wear.

The Aristocrats of Silk Stockings

We may well name this showing, representing as it does the best products of such famous makes as McCallum, Onyx Pointex, Kayser, Holyoke, Corticelli, Gordon and Lemuth.

Such a showing embraces everything that is good in silk hose, from the lowest price at which a really good product may be sold, to the most luxuriously beautiful that money can buy.

A few of the good things in each line are briefly mentioned here:

Holyoke Sandal Hose

There is a vogue for the sandal slipper, cut very low at the sides—a lovely fashion—but a style with which ordinary hose may not be worn.

To wear with sandals, however, are these exquisite Holyoke Hose of sheer, beautiful weave with no disfiguring reinforcements either at side or heel. They present a uniform delicacy and smoothness of weave.

Holyoke Sandal Hose will be found here in the following shades—Black, white, gun metal, gold, silver A, silver B, creole, otter, rose, brown, mandalay, zinc and tiffin. And the price per pair is$5.00

Kayser Silk Stockings

Prominent among the Quality Silk Hose are these new products of the famous Kayser mills.

The weaves are unusually smooth, clear and beautiful and remarkably free from the little defects so frequently seen.

Kayser Pure Dye Silk Hose at $2.00
Formerly selling at $2.50—a beautiful full-fashioned hose of clear, smooth weave, with lisle tops and soles. Sizes 8 to 10. Shown in black, white and beautiful shades of pearl, beige, seal brown and caramel.
In Outsizes at$2.50

The same hose in sizes 8½ to 10½; colors black, white, grey, beige, seal brown.

Pure Dye Ingrain Hose at$3.00
A splendid quality stocking in black only with lisle tops and feet. Sizes 8 to 10.

Pure Dye Ingrain, all-silk, at$3.50
A very fine grade of all-silk hose in medium weight with the patent "Marvelstripe." Shown in black, nude, pearl, beige, seal brown and silver.

Onyx "Pointex" Hosiery

Featuring the famous "Pointex" heel, fashioned to accentuate a graceful ankle line and to give additional wear.

Here is a new number of the Pointex family:

Pure Dye Pointex Hose, with lisle tops and soles in medium weight. Shown in cordovan, new suede, Russian calf, silver, caramel, otter, African brown, polo grey, gun metal, black, white. Pair$2.50

Onyx Chiffon Hose—Pure dye, all-silk, all the new shoe shades—chestnut, bronze, gun metal, cocoa, cinnamon, grey, fawn, new suede, caramel, nude, gold, silver, African brown, black, white. Priced at, ...$3.00

Gordon Silk Hosiery

Represents real quality silk hose in a lisle top, pure-dyed product and an exceptional grade of all-silk from top to toe at a very modest price.

Gordon H300 is a famous, pure-dyed silk stocking, with lisle tops and soles—a stocking for unusual service. Medium weight, shown in castor, zinc, shoe grey No. 2, otter, mandalay, cordovan, beige, cinnamon, black, white. The price is$2.50

Outsized of the same hose, in black and cordovan only, 9 to 10½$3.00

Gordon H600 is a pure-dyed, all-silk from top to toe hose, shown in black, cordovan, mandalay and shoe grey No. 2, and priced$3.00

Three Lovely Spring Visitors Are Guests at Luncheon

Miss Winifred Williams, of Charleston, S. C.; Miss Nellie Grey, of Memphis, Tenn.; and Miss Sarah Hill, of Athens, Ga., were the guests of honor at a spring luncheon at the Piedmont Driving Club Monday morning.

Miss Sarah Hill received the guests, who numbered eight, of the season's most attractive debutantes.

Luncheon was served in the gray room from a round table covered with a lace cloth and in the center of which was placed a large bowl filled with jonquils and the delicate white blossoms, called "breath of spring," and most suitable for a group of debutantes. The place cards were hand-painted with spring flowers.

Miss Hill wore a lovely sleeveless gown of black Canton crepe, girdled with a beaded band of blue and gray beads. She wore with this a smart light blue straw hat, the brim of which was faced with soft blue feathers.

Miss Williams wore a cream-colored dress, fashioned with simple lines, and worn with a smart coat of Oriental-Paisley colors of dull brown, gold and old rose. A small brown hat with hand-made flowers was worn with this.

Miss Grey wore a lovely gown of Russian red and gold. A close fitting hat of blue straw completed the costume.

Luncheon Today.

Miss Williams will be the guest of honor at luncheon, which Miss Douglas Paine, the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Paine, will give at the Druid Hills Golf club Tuesday morning.

In the afternoon Misses Isabel and Caroline Howard, the debutante daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Chesley B. Howard, will give an informal bridge party at their home in Piedmont avenue. The guests will include intimate friends of the hostesses.

Child Welfare Conference Opens This Afternoon

A full program faces the delegates to the two-day conference of the Southern Child Welfare workers, opening here this morning with the annual conference of Southern State Welfare departments in the directors' rooms of the chamber of commerce.

The child welfare conference proper is scheduled to open this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the chamber of commerce with discussions of "The State Government in Child Welfare Work," and the necessity of team work in the maintenance of the normal family.

Leaders in the discussions during the two-day conference will be: C. C. Carson, Southern Child Welfare League of America; J. Prentice Murphy, children's bureau, Philadelphia; Mrs. Martha P. Falconer, American Association of Social Hygiene; William Hodson, Russell Sage Foundation; Owen R. Lovejoy, national child labor committee-man; Miss Emma C. Lundberg, federal children's bureau; James H. Reynolds, American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology; Willis Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools; W. W. Alexander, southern inter-racial commission.

Chief among the outside events for today are the addresses delivered at luncheons of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and the League of Women Voters in what was termed a "Child Welfare" program.

With a child welfare program at the Atlanta Woman's club, a colored child welfare conference at the Young Men's Christian association and a colored mass meeting at Morehouse college, the features for today, leaders in child welfare work are looking enthusiastically to the opening of the Southern Child Welfare conference.

The annual conference of the southern welfare departments will be the opening council tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the directors' rooms of the chamber of commerce.

"Team Work Necessary to Maintain the Normal Family," will be the opening gun in the first session of the welfare conference at 2:30 o'clock, followed by a lively discussion of the "State Government in Child Welfare Work."

The conference dinner, at 6:30 o'clock, will be featured by a discussion of "The Lowest Terms in a Community's Plan for the Care of the Itinerrant Children." The evening meeting will be given over to discussions of "Legislation for Children" and the "Adolescent Girl."

DAILY CALENDAR OF WOMEN'S MEETINGS

The business meeting of the Catholic Club of Business and Professional Women will be held this evening at 6:30 o'clock in the assembly room of the Sacred Heart church.

Ira Street P-T. A. will hold regular monthly meeting this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the school.

The North Peachtree Road Woman's club will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. D. N. Williams on Peachtree road.

The Drama League will meet this afternoon at Eggleston hall at 3:15 o'clock. The Drama League board will meet this morning at 10:30 o'clock at Phillips & Crew's.

The regular meeting of Kirkwood chapter, No. 223, O. E. S., will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A regular meeting of Martha chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the chapter rooms in the Masonic temple of Battle Hill lodge, on Lucile avenue, in West End.

Mrs. Martha P. Falconer will give an address today at the League of Women Voters' luncheon to be given at the Green Tree tea room.

The Piedmont Nurses' alumnae will meet today at 2:30 o'clock in rest room of Piedmont sanatorium.

A rally of the Woman's Missionary societies of the sixth district of the Atlanta association, will meet with the W. M. S. of the Baptist Tabernacle at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

The home economics department of the Atlanta Woman's club will meet today at the clubhouse on Peachtree street.

The Young Woman's class of Trinity church will hold a business meeting at 6:30 o'clock this evening.

Samaroff Concert Seat Sale Opens Today at Cable Hall

The seat sale opens this morning at 9 o'clock at the Cable Piano company, for Mme. Olga Samaroff's piano recital Wednesday evening at the Auditorium armory. It is safe to say that a long line will be in waiting anxious for a choice of seats to hear this distinguished artist on her first appearance in Atlanta.

Mme. Samaroff is an American by birth, tradition and training, having been born in San Antonio, Texas. She has risen to the position she now holds of America's foremost woman pianist, by sheer force of hard work and determination to reach the goal which she set before her, and that she has reached it is attested to in the friends and admirers she has won, whose names are legion, and in the hundreds of press comments expressed in terms of highest praise for her artistic and intelligent work.

As has been remarked in many of these press notices, there is nothing too good that can be said of Olga Samaroff's playing, and any one at all interested in and appreciative of good music will be the loser in failing to take advantage of this opportunity made possible through the efforts of the Atlanta Music club.

The concert Wednesday evening is the last of the Civic series, and music lovers' last opportunity to hear one of the world's great artists in concert during this season. The price of tickets is $1.50 and $1, and officials of the Music club are anticipating a heavy sale of seats, with a large and enthusiastic assemblage of musical Atlantans.

Election of Officers at Ingleside Club

The annual meeting of the Ingleside Country club was held Thursday night, March 8, at the club house.

The election of officers resulted in the re-election of the old board and officers, including Oscar Elsas, president; Robert Schwab, first vice president; Sol Wisberg, second vice president; Albert Mayer, secretary-treasurer.

After the business meeting dancing was enjoyed.

Luncheon Honors Medical Staff And Trustees

A notable event of yesterday was the luncheon given at the Kimball House cafe by the board of managers of the Home for Incapacities to their medical staff and trustees.

The luncheon, which was given as a mark of appreciation by the board of the institution's services rendered the institution by the physicians and trustees at all times, was served at 1 o'clock to the guests who were seated at a table perfectly appointed in every detail and beautifully decorated in spring flowers.

Mrs. Floyd McRae, who has for several years capably served as chairman of the board, acted as official hostess on this occasion, assisted by the other members of the board and also acted as toastmaster. Interesting speeches were made by Dr. Hess, Dr. Latta, Robert Maddox and Mrs. McRae, representing respectively the medical staff, the trustees and the Home for Incapacities. The medical staff were Dr. Best, chairman; Dr. McDuffie, Dr. Cousins, Dr. S. L. Morris, Jr., Dr. Asker, Dr. W. P. Nivolsen, Jr., Dr. Latta. Speeches were made by Dr. Vasanaka and Dr. Conner.

The trustees present were Robert Maddox, James Rhodes, J. K. Orr, Morris Brand, and the following ladies: Mrs. Floyd W. McRae, chairman; Mrs. J. S. B. Thompson, Mrs. Bates Block, Mrs. A. W. Calhoun, Mrs. W. W. Banks, Mrs. Frank D. Holland, Mrs. Stacy Earnest Hill, Mrs. Louis Gholston, Mrs. Sam Luman, Mrs. S. Jackson, Mrs. Alex. King, Mrs. H. L. Hubert, Mrs. John McCaslin, Mrs. Jesse Draper, Mrs. Dudley Cowles, Mrs. J. K. Orr, Mrs. John Lynch, Mrs. L. A. Lynch, Mrs. W. A. Speer, Mrs. Whitford Russell, Mrs. Osgood Wynn, Mrs. Charles P. Wilson, Mrs. W. S. Witham, Mrs. Oscar Ragland, Mrs. B. B. Crew, Mrs. S. A. Vasanaka, Mrs. H. R. Prescott, Mrs. Charles McGehee, Mrs. J. Carroll Payne, Mrs. Joseph Rhodes, Miss Annie Flynn, Mrs. Lollie Markham Pickett, Mrs. James L. Dickey, Jr., Mrs. William Healey.

Silver Tea Is Postponed.

On account of the death of Mrs. H. M. Patterson, the silver tea which was to be held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John A. Perdue has been postponed to Thursday, March 29.

Elaborate Luncheon Given At Tenth Street School

The principals of the public schools of Atlanta were guests at luncheon Monday at Tenth Street school, and they met to discuss the affairs of importance which are connected with the administration of the school.

Miss Mary Lin, principal of Edgewood Avenue school, and Miss Elsie Boylston, assistant art director of the public school system, compose the steering committee, which arranges these meetings.

Mrs. Elsie Dunlap Newport, principal of the Tenth Street school, invited, through this steering committee, the luncheon to be given this time at the Tenth Street school under the auspices of the Tenth Street Parent-Teacher association, of which Mrs. E. D. McDonald is president.

Luncheon Decorations.

Luncheon was served in the school auditorium and the tables were arranged in the form of a hollow square. Potted pink hyacinths formed the floral decorations, and alternated with statues of clay, modeled by the seventh grade pupils of Tenth Street school. The center table had a figure of an elf seated on a stool, and the other tables had the figures of an elf dancing to music of a pipe. These statues rested on oval mirrors and bordering the mirrors were colored crochets, cut free hand, and made by the children of Tenth Street schools. A pastel colored crocus was used as the place card, and attached to this was a little box.

filled with pink mints. These favors were a part of the art work of the past month, made by the pupils of the third grade of Tenth Street school. Unique napkin rings were made by children of the third grades of Williams Street school, and down the centers of the tables danced fairy elves in gay abandon, made by the fourth grade children of State Street school.

Art Directors.

Miss Charlotte Smith and Miss Elsie Boylston, supervisors of the art department of the Atlanta school system, directed this work, and deserve great praise for the artistic effect. The cakes were iced in pink, and on the top of each one was the most exquisite and perfectly produced animal, made in white icing, and the work of Joseph Stuchlik, a genius of the past month, made by the pupils of the Tenth Street school, and a little playlet entertained the guests.

Eighty guests were present, comprising the principals, supervisory force and members of the board of education.

After the luncheon interesting talks were made and routine business finished the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Speir Give Dinner Party For Norman Baker

Mr. and Mrs. George Caldwell Speir were hosts at a beautifully appointed birthday dinner party Monday evening at Druid Hills Golf club, honoring Norman L. Baker, of Washington, D. C. After dinner dancing was enjoyed until midnight. The lace-covered table had for a centerpiece a huge mound of pink roses, green satin boxes held green and white mints, the favors were green hares, shamrocks and silver fish bones. Covers were placed for Miss Vera Bradley, of New York; Miss Lucille Byrne, Mrs. N. F. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Harrison, Norman L. Baker, of Washington, D. Easiest Way to Remove Ugly Hair Growths

(Beauty Culture)

Here is a method for removing hair from arms, neck or face that is unflattering and is quite inexpensive: Mix a thick paste with some powdered delatone and water and spread on hairy surface. After 2 or 3 minutes, rub it off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. No harm or inconvenience results from this treatment, but be careful to get genuine delatone and mix fresh as wanted.—(adv.)

TOO LATE—YES, FORGET

That Was Yesterday--- Look at Today and Remember Before It Is "Too Late"

"Too late"---the train had gone. "Too late"---somebody else had got the order. "Too late"---your sweetheart would not wait any longer. "Too late"---your wife had listened to your promises too many times before. "Too late"---your mother, grown old, her spirit had fled to the other world before you arrived for that long postponed visit.

"Too late." These are fearful words. Yet, in our sluggishness, we do not know their real meaning and then comes regret.

Big opportunities have come and gone and none realized because you were "too late." How much better things would have been had you not been "too late!"

But let's forget the past. Today is the watchword, though a thousand opportunities have been neglected before.

Today has its opportunity and a big one in Piggly Wiggly Class A Stock at $55.00 per share to the real investing public, for this is not the price for the "gambler" or the "speculator."

The president of Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., wants 20,000 stockholders as his partners in this business---real honest - to - goodness partners that will help through their good will and patronage to make Piggly Wiggly the greatest and best merchandising organization in the world, and this is what it is to be, but what it would not be if controlled by the gambling or speculative clique who buy and sell stock merely for profit on market manipulations while the public puts up the cash. It is to prevent anything like this happening to PIGGLY WIGGLY that this stock is offered to the public at the low price of $55.00 per share, to be paid for on the partial payment plan or all cash if desired.

One share, five shares, 100 shares---all at the same price of $55.00 per share.

Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., has no bonded debt, no preferred stock ahead of this Class A Stock. This stock is the highest class stock outstanding in the Company---there is no stock ahead of it in either dividends or assets and none on a par with it. It is the kind of stock to buy in any business that is to have a big future, for, if big earnings are realized, they go first to this kind of stock, whereas many other classes of stock get what is left after bonds, preferred stock and even more get their profit first, and many is the time when no profit is left for the lower grades of stock---and remember, too, when your money is in a bond or preferred stock it is usually limited to a certain fixed percentage of profit.

It is not by any means the present dividend rate that is being paid on Piggly Wiggly Class A Stock, which equals more than 7% on the price of $55.00 per share, which is to be considered, but it is that big profit that is bound to come in the greater value of the stock and its corresponding increase in the dividend rate if Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., continues its present rate of progress, and surely this will be a fact.

When you buy this stock you will be a partner in a business that you can see every day for yourself as you can go to the principal cities and towns throughout the country and there see some of your property if you are the owner of some of this stock. These stores will be your very own in partnership with the president of the Company and the thousands of other stockholders.

This is a national business and one not dependent upon purely local conditions, as may be found in a particular city at a particular time.

This is a business that deals in food---so, whether good times or bad, there must be business in food. Could any kind of business have a better foundation for "safety?"

"For cash" is the way Piggly Wiggly business is handled, with no delivery costs.

It is operated on a particular self-service plan that is absolutely distinctive for cleanliness and for economy in operation.

No distribution system for food products has ever been on such comprehensive plan for well organized effort to build a great business.

Compare the record of Piggly Wiggly Stores with the early record of any other now big business and if you have in your mind any sense at all you will not fail to see that the record of Piggly Wiggly far exceeds the record of others.

Today Is Your Opportunity

CLASS "A" COMMON STOCK of Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc.

$55 PER SHARE!

$55 PER SHARE!

Partial Payment Plan or All Cash If Desired!

This is a voting stock. Is preferred as to dividends. Is cumulative as to dividends---now paying $1.00 per share quarterly, which is more than 7% on the price of $55 per share. Dividend dates are March 1st, June 1st, September 1st and December 1st. This stock is traded in on both the New York and Chicago Stock Exchanges. Is good collateral for a bank loan.

PIGGLY WIGGLY STORES, INC., has no bonded debt, no preferred stock ahead of this Class "A" Stock either in dividends or assets.

PIGGLY WIGGLY STORES now operating in 41 States and Canada---1,241 stores now the total---located in 388 towns and cities.

PIGGLY WIGGLY STORES, INC., owns and operates 659 of these stores, located in the principal towns and cities of the country.

It is not only the present 7% profit that the stockholder in PIGGLY WIGGLY will get for his money---there is bound to come that enhancement in the value of the stock that is due to follow the expansion and growth of this business, and with it will come, as a natural sequence, a larger dividend rate.

The sales of this Company for the last quarter of 1922 amounted to almost $11,000,000.00, and for December to practically $4,000,000.00, and for the present quarter are expected to reach $12,000,000.00---and with plans for expansion during the present year sales should exceed $60,000,000.00, and possibly will exceed $75,000,000.00.

The Net Earnings for the last quarter of 1922 exceeded $315,000.00, and it is expected that these figures will be exceeded for the first quarter of 1923. At this rate the quarterly dividend requirements of $1.00 per share will be earned by more than 50 per cent on our present 200,000 shares of outstanding Class "A" Common Stock, and with the expansion plans of this company that are to be acted upon during the present year these earnings should be materially larger.

This company also operates Variety Stores in Memphis, Tenn., Chicago, Ill.; Norfolk, Va.; Nashville, Tenn.; Chattanooga, Tenn., and Terre Haute, Ind. These stores are extremely profitable and many more will be established during the present year.

It is desired that wide distribution be had on this block of stock, and that this may be accomplished arrangements have been perfected so that this stock may be paid for on a partial payment plan upon the basis of $25.00 cash per share, and three notes at the rate of $10.00 per share, due June 1st, September 1st and December 1st. This means you will receive more than 7% on the entire investment and pay 6% on the balance as represented by notes of $30.00 per share. If desired cash may be paid in full for the stock.

Piggly Wiggly is not the old-fashioned kind of grocery store. It is up-to-date---the store of progress---and of course there are imitators. That in itself proves the worth of the Piggly Wiggly System. But the imitators are like all fakes---they haven't the true ring like the original, and besides, all history, practically, records success for the original and failure for the snoop, ooze-spined creature whose avocation is pussy-footing around the brain workings of an originator. The imitator is like this. Who will do him honor?

*Your opportunity is now.

Opinions on Cotton Market Future Becoming Confused

Substantial Reaction in Prices, Due to Spot Selling in South, Predicted Before Season's End.

BY THEO. H. PRICE,
Editor Commerce and Finance.

Opinion in regard to the future of the cotton market is becoming more confused. May contracts in New York reached and passed 31 cents last week, but the newly established high level could not be maintained and although the trading has been enormous the well informed believe that the long interest has passed into weaker hands. Moreover, the south has been a free seller of spots ever since 30 cents was obtainable for middling cotton at the primary markets, and the uncommodated supply not held by spinners or for their account is probably being carried in the shape of futures bought by the eleventh hour bulls who have been persuaded that there is no top to the market.

Slump Predicted.

Under such conditions it is, I think, reasonable to expect a substantial reaction in prices however strong the statistical situation may become by the end of the season.

But this is not to say that a permanent decline in the values of cotton is indicated, for there is no denying the fact that the discount at which new crop deliveries are now selling reflects the expectation of a large increase in acreage and production next season. If anything should happen to disturb this expectation it is hardly possible that we will get through the spring and summer without at least one or two crop scares of the first magnitude.

I am therefore inclined to feel that those who are now committing themselves heavily to the short side of the market are premature.

I have been asked what would be the intrinsic value of cotton if next year's supply and consumption were about equal. The intrinsic value of cotton has never been and never will be accurately ascertained, but in reply to the above question I have pointed out that according to the department of labor for the state of New York the average wage of the state's factory workers in January 1923 was $26.21 a week. This compares with a "peak" of $28.03 in 1920 and a pre-war weekly wage of $12.70 in June 1914.

Contrast in Wages.

Present wages are therefore 200 per cent of the pre-war figures and the comparison suggests that cotton at 26 cents a pound would not be much out of line if the present value of human labor as expressed in money was applicable in measuring the value of commodities.

One curious and unusual feature of the present situation is the disappearance of the premium on long staple cotton. My advisers from New England as well as from the more important markets of the south indicate that cotton whose staple is 11-18 to 13-16 inches in length has ceased to command the premium of from 5 to 10 cents a pound over ordinary staple cotton that was formerly paid for it. This unusual condition is explained by the fact that in the manufacture of "good" tires for automobiles long staple cotton is not essential.

Cost Increases.

The cost of cultivating, picking and ginning it is much greater than the cost of growing the ordinary "bread and butter" cotton, and that long staple cotton is no longer required in the manufacture of automobile tires it will be some time before it recovers the premium at which it should normally sell.

The trade in cotton goods is well in New England as well as in the south, most of the mills are running at capacity and many of them are running at night. My advice from New England indicates that rather than stop work most of the textile manufacturers there will probably agree to a moderate advance in wages, and as the spirit of compromise seems to be spreading the probabilities of a strike are becoming more remote.

Market Higher.

Cotton Seed Oil. The market is higher at the close of this week, partly in sympathy with the stronger lard market, but mainly by reason of the tightness of crude and the advance therein due to buying by refiners for immediate needs.

Crude oil has sold in the southeast at 101-1/2 cents and in Texas at 10 cents, and it has really been a surprise to most of the trade to know the small quantities that have come out, even at these advances. While some of the trade believe that the south is holding back crude, this is doubted, and opinion that there are not over 1,500 tanks of unsold crude yet to be marketed.

Trade in compound still continues on a scale that will consume as much oil, if not more, than in the same period last year, and if this proves to be the case, the carry-over will be almost negligible. It is on this basis that still higher prices are predicted for cotton oil before the end of the season.

Cake and meal have been very dull due to the absence of foreign demand, but the latest advices from abroad indicate that Denmark especially will require additional stocks before the end of the season, and stocks in the south are admittedly light.

Import Statement.

Washington, March 12.—Imports into the United States during December were valued at $207,000,000, according to preliminary estimates by the commerce department, compared to $257,485,500 during December, 1921.

For the calendar year 1922 total imports were valued at $2,116,000,000, or an increase of $208,000,000 over 1921.

Calculations as to the value of imports have been delayed since enactment of the new tariff law, but the December total was greater than that of any month in 1922 except September, when imports, rushing goods to the United States before the higher tariff went into effect, brought in a total of $208,400,000.

The value of imports during 1922 was smaller than for 1920 and 1919, which amounted to $2,378,000,000 and $2,904,000,000 respectively, but was nearly twice as great for 1921, a normal year, when imports amounted to $1,762,000,000.

Presbyterians to Meet.

The members of Westminster Presbyterian church will meet at the church Wednesday evening, March 14, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of pleading for the current expense and benevolent causes of the church for the new year. A social hour will precede the business and refreshments will be served by the ladies' auxiliary. All members of the church are urged to be present as those who do not pledge at the church will be asked to remain at home next Sunday afternoon until seen by members of the canvassing board.

Coleman Hits Trail.

Mobile, Ala., March 12.—Manager Bob Coleman, of the San Antonio club of the Texas league, who has been training here since February 27 with the St. Louis Browns, departed today for the Lone Star town to take charge of his team. He was accompanied by Pitcher Henry Meine, a St. Louis boy, last year with the Beaumont, Texas, club, and Taylor Phelps, a semi-pro from Shreveport, La.

Modern processes of breadmaking give us as nutritious food as before with the use of one-half the yeast and sugar.

Changes on Stock Market Small and Unimportant

Market Street Railway Issues Display Strength, While Sugars, Motors and Rubbers Gain Moderately.

Day's total sales, 726,000 shares. Twenty industrials average 104.22; net gain .40. High, 1923, 105.23; low, 96.94. Twenty railroads averaged 89.06; net gain .08. High, 1923, 90.63; low, 84.53.

New York, March 12.—Except for the brisk bidding up of a few specialties, notably the Market Street railway issues, and the moderate strength displayed by the equipments, motors, sugars and rubbers, price changes in today's stock market were generally small and unimportant.

Chief interest of the financial community centered in the money market, bankers demanding 5-1/2 per cent for time loans on all maturities, the highest price since November, 1921.

Other forms of monetary accommodation also hardened. The highest rate for call money, which opened at 5 per cent, advanced to 5-1/2, was due to the reduced supply offered by banks which are accumulating funds to finance income tax payments later in the week.

American Locomotive was one of the day's features, touching 137 3/8, the highest price in all time, and then reacting to 136, where it was up half the day.

Other equipments improved in sympathy. Baldwin closing at 140, up 3-8, after having touched 141 3/8 and Lima advancing 1-2 on reports of an increase in the locomotive market.

Heavy buying of Cuban raw sugar by French and British interests revived interest in the sugar group, Manati climbing 5-14 points; South Porto Rican 3-1/2; and Sugar 2-3/4.

2-3/4, and American, Cuban-American and Cuba Cane preferred, one to two points.

Announcement of a 10 per cent increase in tire prices, effective March 15, by the United States Rubber company also brought fresh buying power into that group.

United States Rubber touching 61 5/8; Kelly-Springfield 56 and Fisk 14 5/8.

The sensational rise in Market Street railway issues was predicted on the report that a satisfactory compromise was about to be reached between bankers and the city of San Francisco for the sale of the company's properties.

The net gains of the preferred, prior preferred and second preferred ranged from 4 to 8 points, with the extreme gains several points above these figures.

California Petroleum and Standard Oil of California, each up about a point, feature the irregular movement in oils.

Rails were again sluggish although Lackawanna Delaware and Hudson and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico made moderate gains.

Sterling and France bills were in supply, probably because of the more unfavorable news from occupied Germany, and those rates receded slightly, but trading in the other foreign exchanges was quiet.

Demerit sterling sold just above 4.70 in the late afternoon and French francs around 6.02 cents.

LONG LINT COTTON CAMPAIGN WAGED

Atlanta Cotton Exchange Co-Operates With State Agricultural College to Improve Crops.

The Atlanta Cotton Exchange, in co-operation with the State College of Agriculture, bankers' associations and others, is pushing its campaign for longer lint cotton in north Georgia. J. Hope Tignor, an official of the exchange, stated that several carloads of good planting seed had been placed by his organization without cost for its service. He said he believed that the publicity campaign which had been carried on by the exchange had created interest and resulted in the sale of many more carloads of seed than was previously handled by the exchange.

Allen F. Johnson, vice president of the Consolidated Textile corporation, with headquarters at Lynchburg, Va., and former president of the Exposition of Cotton Mills of Atlanta, put the textile man's point of view, said: "I commend the action of the Atlanta Cotton Exchange in its efforts to induce the farmers to plant a better variety of cotton seed. It is a well-known fact among all cotton millers in the country, including the mills in Georgia, that the staple of north Georgia cotton has deteriorated to such an extent during the past ten years that it no longer has the spinning quality it formerly had. Therefore the spinners who formerly preferred north Georgia cotton are now forced to go to western points for the desired staple."

"What the spinners want from north Georgia is a full inch to an inch and one-sixteenth staple as a minimum and full inch and one-sixteenth if possible. This cannot be obtained from north Georgia as long as the seed of inferior staple is planted. Wherever staple of the old north Georgia is to an inch and sixteenth staple is now to be had by bringing a premium of one to two cents per pound over the seven-eighth inch staple.

"Since north Georgia is growing comparatively little of this quality of cotton now, the west is getting the premium for this kind of lint that north Georgia formerly obtained."

"I would suggest that the exchange undertake to have the farmer discontinue growing the half and half cotton in north Georgia, a step spinners do not want it at any price and will avoid buying cotton in sections in Georgia where half and half is generally grown."

GIVE TARGET WARNING

Rifle Practice to Begin at Fort McPherson Monday.

All persons in the vicinity of Fort McPherson are warned of the danger of traversing the area of the targets southwest of the fort in a statement given out Monday from the personnel adjutant's office of the fourth corps area coincident with the announcement that rifle practice began Monday to continue through the spring, summer and fall. Detailed information regarding firing periods may be obtained from the adjutant of the fort.

MINISTERS INDORSE CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Indorsement of Atlanta's annual clean-up and paint-up campaign was given Monday by the Methodist Ministers' association at their regular weekly meeting held at the Wesley Memorial church.

The ministers also declared that they would bring the campaign before their congregations from the pulpit. Rev. J. H. Eakes, president of the south Atlanta district offered the resolution which was approved by the association.

Trade Federation Meets.

The Atlanta Federation of Trades will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock at 112 1-2 Trinity avenue. It was announced Monday. Several interesting subjects will be brought up for discussion and President Emmett L. Quinn urges that all delegates be in attendance.

SPINABLE COTTON SURVEY PLANNED

Secretary of Commerce Hoover Assures Senator Harris That Step Will Be Taken.

Washington, March 12.—Secretary of Commerce Hoover today gave assurances to Senator Harris, of Georgia, that a survey of spinable cotton on hand throughout the world on July 31 of this year will be made by the census bureau and the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

In the last congress Senator Harris introduced a bill which the senate passed, authorizing a world census of spinable cotton each year. The bill was favorably reported to the house census committee, but failed of consideration in the last days of the house.

The actual amount of cotton on hand in the world, Senator Harris said, had a far reaching effect on the price and the plans for raising cotton, as well as the campaign against the boll weevil. He charged that inaccurate information was used by the cotton speculators to depress the price of cotton and that if the actual amount was known it would tend to stimulate the production and price of cotton.

Discusses Cotton Situation.

Charlotte, N. C., March 12.—The continued unsettled condition of the world does not allow sanguine hopes for immediate rehabilitation of foreign trade was the opinion expressed by Edward T. Pickard, chief of the textile division of the federal bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, who was a guest at a chamber of commerce luncheon here today.

Mr. Pickard, who is on a tour of southern textile centers that will take him to Spartanburg and Greenville, S. C., and into Georgia and Texas, addressed a number of textile men at the luncheon. He discussed the large increase in textile mills in the south east and told of his visit last summer to textile centers in England, France and Germany.

"England's position as a commercial entity is being regained much more rapidly than that of any other country," said the speaker, who declared that it is 45 per cent better than at the close of the world war, but still 40 per cent less than its pre-war mark.

The textile industry in France is 80 per cent rehabilitated, he added, and Germany is buying a little cotton, but financial entanglements resulting from depreciation of the mark prevents that country from being regarded as a factor in the market.

Mr. Pickard is to speak in Spartanburg tomorrow.

James Buchanan, Veteran Sleuth, Called by Death

Was First Detective and First Whisky Officer of Atlanta.

James Franklin Buchanan, 77, 801 Cherokee avenue, died at his home Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. He was Atlanta's first city detective and first prohibition enforcement officer. He had been employed by the city at intervals for more than 40 years.

He was a member of the Barnes lodge of Odd Fellows, the Red Men's Commandery tribe, the Royal Arcanum and Camp No. 159, United Confederate veterans.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. James Franklin Buchanan, who before her marriage was Miss Nancy Ann S. Buchanan, daughter of Alexander H. Vaughn, prominent DeKalb county planter; two sons, W. T. Buchanan and J. C. Buchanan; five daughters, Mrs. W. R. Bean, Mrs. J. W. Shelor, Mrs. D. M. Haynes, and Lollie and Mabel Buchanan, all of Atlanta; and thirteen grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

Bankers Trust Company, New York, Trustee

The Company agrees to pay interest without deduction for Federal Income taxes up to but not exceeding 2% per annum. The Company also agrees to reimburse, upon application within 60 days after payment, holders of Bonds of the 6% Series of 1923 resident in Pennsylvania for the four mills tax assessed in that State, to refund the State Tax in Connecticut up to the rate of four mills annually, and the Massachusetts Income Tax on the interest not exceeding 6% of such interest per annum.

For further particulars we refer to a letter of H. M. Atkinson, Esq., Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Georgia Railway and Power Company, which he summarizes as follows:

BUSINESS: The Georgia Railway and Power Company owns and operates extensive hydro-electric generating plants, transmission and distribution lines, which supply electric light and power to the northern portion of the State of Georgia, including the City of Atlanta, and 51 other municipalities and their vicinities. The territory served, which contains a population of over 730,000, is noted for its prosperity and growth. Atlanta is generally conceded to be the financial, commercial and railway center of the South. The Company leases the Georgia Railway and Electric Company and has entered into a contract to supply it with electricity. Through this lease and contract the Company has obtained the largest power customer in Georgia and operates the electric, gas and street railway business in the City of Atlanta.

SECURITY: Through deposit with the Trustee of an equal principal amount of the Company's First and Refunding Mortgage 5% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, the new bonds share in a direct first mortgage, on all the properties, rights, franchises and leaseholds owned by the Company, subject to only $1,400,000 underlying bonds on a minor portion thereof. In addition, this Series of 6% Bonds is secured, equally and ratably with $7,500,000 additional General Mortgage Bonds by general mortgage on the entire property of the Company, including the lease and power contract of the Georgia Railway & Electric Company.

VALUATION: The value of the properties owned by the Company as appraised by Messrs. Parsons, Klapp, Brinckerhoff & Douglas, Engineers, as of January 1, 1922, was $40,571,000. Expenditures for additions since that date together with the proceeds of these Bonds aggregate $6,196,000, making a total as of December 31, 1922, of $46,767,000. This is almost twice the amount of the total funded debt, including this issue.

EARNINGS: Consolidated earnings of the Company, without any benefit yet received from the expenditure of this $6,196,000 toward increasing its generating capacity, are reported as follows:

	3-year average Years ended Dec. 31, 1920-1922	Year ended Jan. 31, 1923
Gross Revenue	$14,171,600	$15,032,799
Operating Expenses and Taxes	9,525,074	10,241,356*
Net Earnings	$4,646,526	$4,791,443
Annual Rentals		$1,985,416
Annual Interest on Georgia Railway and Power Company Funded Debt (including this issue)		1,348,350
		$3,333,766
Balance		$1,457,677

*Includes $389,682 charged against operating expenses and credited to reserves but not expended. Deducting this amount from operating expenses will show Net Earnings, on the basis of actual expenditures, of $5,181,514 for the period.

Of the net operating revenue approximately 72% is derived from the electric and gas business and 28% from the railway.

For the year ending January 31, 1923, net earnings of the Company from its owned properties alone were $2,136,945, or nearly $800,000 in excess of the amount required for bond interest had the present issue been outstanding. The leased properties, after payment of rentals, in the same period produced additional income of $669,000, making total earnings of more than $1,450,000 in excess of bond interest requirements had these bonds been outstanding.

During the year 1923 the Company's generating capacity will be increased over 50% by the completion of the 50,000 kw. Tugalo hydro-electric plant.

EQUITY: Based on quotations of March 9, 1923, the Preferred and Common Stocks of the Company, upon all of which dividends are now being paid, have a market value of over $3,700,000.

These bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to their approval by our counsel, Messrs. Morgan, Lewis and Bockius, and by the Georgia Public Service Commission.

Interim Receipts will be delivered pending the issue and delivery of definitive bonds.

PROGRAM

Anniston, Ala., March 11.—(Special).—Announcement that the Federal Farm Loan Bank association of Calhoun county had been authorized to increase the amount of loans to members from $10,000 to $25,000 made in this city by Secretary C. Young, has aroused a great deal of interest among farmers, and probably have the effect of bringing a large number of new members into the organization.

Secretary Young announced nearly $400,000 has already been loaned to members of the association. The average rate of interest is 11 per cent of interest prevailing and the farmers who have borrowed from the federal government.

A little of the way far the $200 to $10,000 have prevailed so the organization was perfected. It covers acres, and the payment of the interest will have effect of increasing the businessness of this county, according to Mr. Young.

A. Little, of the Weitzburg, is president of the county organization, the board of directors is made up of the following farmer members:

W. Williams, J. E. H. Bagley, G. Prentice, J. E. H. Bagley, W. W. Waddell and J. E. Hsney.

Storms Lessen Trading On New York Exchange

Strong Bearish Sentiment Prevails at Opening, south and west out of business to the greatest extent in years as a result of the storm, trading on the stock exchange today was small, the ticker at times coming to a dead halt. Again, however, the market proved a surprise. Before the opening there was more bearish sentiment than at any

Next to the failure of the stock market to continue its decline of Saturday, the advance in money rates was the subject of much speculation. Call money renewed at 5 per cent with the banks asking for 5-1/2 for all period of time loans, the highest since the war. The fact that higher money rates are due not to accumulative but to speculative demand.

England's foreign trade statement for February cables from London today reflects the same conditions ex-ness degree. Imports were $85,836,555 pounds against $83,741,000 pounds for the same month last year, while imports were 57,509,000 pounds against 58,335,000 pounds. This is an increase of 14,480,000 pounds in imports and a decrease of $2,195,555 in exports or an excess of imports over exports of 26,440,000 pounds against an excess of 11,037,000 a year ago. For the two months in round figures imports were 145,550,000 pounds this year against 145,000,000 pounds in 1922. England's monthly foreign trade statement usually comes out only a few days ahead of ours, a close watch on the monthly fee losses throughout this country and Canada because when the losses are large it means heavy sales of treasury investments by insurance companies to the government to policyholders. With February a year and month in most parts of the country and with the fuel situation what it was there were 474 firms during the month of February who lost money as high as $10,000 or more. There were no big fires, yet the total monthly loss mounted up to $92,770,000 for the short month, an increase of $8,000,000 over the same month's figures of a year ago and an increase of February of months fire losses were $79,385,000 against $67,867,000 for the same period of 1922 and 61,208,000 for 1921. But it is a cold wind that blows nobody good. The heavy fire losses create a larger demand for building materials.

Dann Gets New Trial.

Albany, Ga., March 12.—J. L. Dann, nominee for postmaster here, will be put on trial a second time tomorrow morning in city court on a charge of violating the Georgia worthless check law. Mr. Dann was tried at the February term, but a mistrial was declared.

INDICTS REALTY MAN

Andrew Guy Smith, well known real estate dealer and prominent Atlanta business man, was indicted by the grand jury Monday on a charge of making "false and fraudulent" income tax returns for the year 1921, and for making no return whatever in 1919 and 1920, according to court officials.

The indictment charges, according to investigating officials who submitted evidence for use in returning the true bill, that Mr. Smith made a return on $6,000 in 1921, whereas his gross income was approximately $40,000.
